Autumn Wields Magic

'Leaves Turn To Gold . .'

By CHARLES CRONIN

Not even the pompous peacock can match in sheer splendor the technicolor production created by Mother Nature this fall in the Tri - State Area.

Woods and hillsides are splashed with the beautiful autumn colors of yellow, orange and red, and the leaves shimmer in the sunlight in graceful flight from the treetops.

According to the experts, coloration in the leaves is best when bright sunny days and cool nights are abundant, and the Ohio Valley has enjoyed largely this type of weather in the past few weeks.

One of the scenic spots close at hand is Tomlinson Run State Park in Hancock County, where this view was photographed. While black and white fails to bring out the real beauty of the trees, the photos do suggest what lies in store for the nature lover.

THE BRIGHT landscape is abundant in autumn colors, ranging from brilliant reds and golden yellows to scarlet, dark green, tan and brown.

Yellow is one of the most popular colors this year, and can mean the tree is tulip popular, hickory, aspen, willow, birch, beech, elm, sassafras, or maple. Orange, a mixture of yellow and red, usually indicates maples. Oak sometimes show up as rose, rust or purple, especially late in the season.

Dark, rich red means red maple, scarlet oak, dogwood, sassafras, gum, sumac, woodbine and sugar maple. Dark green usually denotes evergreens, especially after the color change is well underway.

There are many variations of tan or brown, but they usually indicate oak or hickory, depending on the time of the season.

Experts claim that when there is an early frost or the fall is wet and cloudy, browns and yellows are dominant and the brilliant colors are largely absent.

The fall color change is due to a series of factors, and one of the most fanciful attributes to Jack Frost.

Rumors Hint Sale To Soviet Near

President May Speak Up Today About Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were signs that President Kennedy may break his silence today on a U.S.-Soviet wheat deal which is rumored in some quarters to be almost signed, sealed and delivered.

One straw in the wind was that the White House abruptly changed the time of today's presidential news conference to 6 p.m. EDT, two hours later than it had been scheduled.

The time change strengthened speculation and reports that the President was preparing to announce his decision on the proposed sale of American wheat to the Soviet Union and other Communist-bloc nations.

But Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said he had "no information about an announcement" and that the time for the news conference had been delayed because "it's more convenient for the President's schedule."

If Kennedy was about to make a decision on a U.S.-Soviet wheat deal, though, a source said he was keeping it close to himself.

Reports were coming in from other administration sources that Kennedy would disclose, probably today, that the United States was on the verge of selling more than $300 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union and three East European satellites.

The Soviet Union was reported to have expressed interest through diplomatic channels in buying $250 million worth, with Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria bidding for $60 million more.

But there were caution signals around Capitol Hill.

Reports from pipelines there indicated that President Kennedy was carefully examining the political aspects of the situation before making a decision.

Although Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicted the sale, with payment in gold, would be closed soon, other advisers expressed doubt Kennedy would leap into anything that might expose him to Republican attacks in the 1964 campaign.

Officers Act Swiftly

Train Halted As Sweeper Gets Stalled On Crossing

The city's new mechanical street sweeper stalled on the Broadway crossing, freights approaching from opposite directions and the sweeper operator telephoning frantically for police help.

That was the situation the police department faced at 5 this morning in a thriller that could furnish the script for anybody's television drama.

But it all ended happily, thanks to quick action on the part of virtually every available policeman.

It all began as Patrolmen Paul E. Carter and Jack Walsh, driving east along the river Rd. in a cruiser, spotted the city's new $10,000 sweeper hung up on the Broadway crossing. A wheel had gone off the paved section of the crossing and the sweeper was stalled.

A short distance away they spotted the sweeper operator, Tony Caparuolo, in a telephone booth as he prepared to call Patrolman Robert Duffy, desk man at headquarters, for aid in getting the machine off the tracks.

Officer Duffy telephoned the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.'s control tower at Yellow Creek and learned that two freights were approaching at that very moment—one eastbound and one westbound.

Officer Carter and Officer Walsh notified two other cruisers of the situation quickly by radio and the police swung into action.

The Yellow Creek tower told Of-

Ranch Barge Of 515 Steers Goes Upriver

The Stratton Dam locked through a tow early this morning carrying some extraordinary cargo — a 515-head herd of beef cattle straight from the huge King Ranch in Texas.

Their experimental, 2,400-mile journey — the farthest cattle have ever been shipped by barge — started Sept. 10 at Corpus Christi, Tex., and will end near Pittsburgh.

Shipped aboard a double-deck barge, the steers were bound for the Buck and Doe Run Valley Farm, near Coatesville, Pa., a subsidary of King Ranch.

The Stratton Dam locked the barge Lulu Belle early this morning, and the tow proceeded through the Montgomery Island Dam at Ohio View on the way to Pittsburgh about 9.

Hurricane Flora Spins To Open Sea

Lashes Bahamas, Apparently Last Landfall As Storm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Flora, one of the most deadly tropical storms on record, thrashed a handful of thinly populated Bahamian islands today, apparently her last landfall as a hurricane.

Flora's center surrounded by winds up to 100 miles an hour, passed over the island of Mayaguana before dawn, and then she picked up speed and swirled into the open Atlantic at 15 miles an hour.

The Weather Bureau said Flora would move faster and faster as she pressed toward northwestern Europe and England for the next few days. But by the time she reached the North Atlantic, cold air will rob her of tropical character.

Flora left behind a trail of devastation and death.

Officials at Haiti, hardest hit, estimated the dead at 3,500, but said the exact figure will never be known because the bodies cannot be found. Many parts of Cuba are still under water.

Some of the islands in the southeastern Bahamas were still due for gales.

But the islands, some of which contain U.S. missile tracking equipment, were expected to escape serious damage because of ample warning.

Flora moved off the northeast coast of Cuba Tuesday after pounding the island with winds and rain for five days. Nearly 60,000 persons reportedly abandoned flooded homes in Oriente and Camaguey provinces.

Over the weekend the slow-moving hurricane devastated Haiti, leaving 3,500 persons dead and 100,000 homeless. Flora also killed 17 persons on the island of Tobago, off Venezuela.

With communications in eastern Cuba knocked out, there was no immediate estimate of casualties on Fidel Castro's island.

Havana reported that the rain had stopped and the winds abated in Oriente and Camaguey provinces, allowing relief activities to pick up. Relief work also was stepped up in Haiti.

Disaster survey teams reported a pressing need for clothing, shoes and medicine in interior villages of Haiti. Officials said 40 per cent of the country was devastated.

PENNSYLVANIA State Atty. Gen. Walter Alessandroni (right) stated at a press conference Tuesday in Erie that Gov. William Scranton has agreed to be a favorite son candidate from the state in the presidential race. U.N. Slates Investigation In South Viet

To Probe Charges Diem's Violating Buddhists' Rights

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A U.N. fact-finding mission is expected to leave soon for South Viet Nam to investigate charges that President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime is violating the rights of Buddhists.

The assembly agreed Tuesday to dispatch a mission to be appointed by U.N. President Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez of Venezuela with instructions to report to the 111-nation forum as soon as possible.

Consent came without a formal vote after behind-scenes talks succeeded in getting the Soviet Union to drop a rival proposal which would have blocked a direct U.N. investigation.

Under the agreement, Chile and Costa Rica also withdrew a proposal that an inquiry be launched. This left the way clear for Sosa-Rodriguez to accede to the Diem government's request that a mission be sent. U.N. sources said he would start lining up the group today.

Informed sources said Sosa-Rodriguez probably would name seven members, including three from Asia, two from Africa and two from Latin America. Meanwhile, assembly debate is suspended on the charge that Buddhist rights are being violated in South Viet Nam.

The outcome obviously pleased the United States, which did not relish full-dress discussion of the Vietnamese issue at this stage.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko took the Western powers by surprise Monday with a proposal to turn the fact-finding job over to the Vietnamese Control Commission set up by the 1954 Geneva conference.

Gov. Scranton Discounts Bid For President

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania says he is "as dark a horse as you can get" in the race for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

He made the remark at a news conference Tuesday prior to addressing a $100 - a - plate GOP fund-raising dinner Tuesday night attended by about 1,000 persons.

The governor, mentioned as a possible dark horse candidate for the nomination, said he was "not a candidate for any national office either in 1964 or 1968." He added, however, that he was willing to be a favorite-son candidate at the GOP convention next year if there is still a choice between three or four candidates and if his delegation wants him as such.

Scranton said he would have no part of any movement to stop Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona as a presidential aspirant.

In his speech, Scranton accused the Kennedy administration of dedication to interference in areas where it has no business.

Sewage Plant Financing To Be Discussed

Council At Chester Plans Another Talk With Bonding Firm

Further discussions with a Cincinnati bonding firm concerning a proposal for financing Chester's projected sewage disposal plant were authorized by Council at a special meeting Tuesday night.

Council ordered a meeting arranged with a representative of the Magnus & Co. to air one of three proposals recently offered by the firm.

A recommendation from Atty. James Jordan, counsel for the Sanitary Board, which is planning the project, indicated the city would benefit better from Proposal 1.

This plan would call for a 10 per cent discount on the $495,000 worth of bonds to be issued, 3½ per cent interest on the bonds—$304,000—and $35 for each $1,000 for the cost of the bonding attorney and printing the bonds, or about $17,000.

The total cost of the project and financing would be about $816,000.

Under Proposal 3, there would be a 5 per cent discount on the bonds totaling $469,000 and an interest rate of between 3.75 and 4.25 per cent, making the total $950,000.

Atty. Jordan pointed out the city would save $133,000 under the first proposal. A second proposal was ruled out by A. R. Todd, Wheeling engineer for the project.

Following a discussion on the proposals, Council directed Clerk

Hint Effort Started For Successor

Prime Minister's Illness Marked By Shock, Confusion

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Impressions hardened among Conservative party leaders today that Harold Macmillan, stricken by illness, soon will have to step down as prime minister of Great Britain.

The annual conference of the ruling Tories opened formally in an atmosphere of shock and confusion at the development. There was a sense of unreality about the party's debates on national educational and health because the issue of leadership was the only one preoccupying the 4,000 assembled delegates.

Elder statesmen, managers and Cabinet ministers who form the party hierarchy faced a stark choice between soldiering on leaderless for the next two or three months in the expectation that Macmillan will recover, or agreeing by Saturday on an heir-apparent who would be ready to take over the minute Macmillan signals he has had enough.

Even though the leaders themselves still were deeply engaged in secret discussion over the claims of rival contenders, it became increasingly evident that the consensus among them was that the present situation could not be allowed to continue. The word in private was that a big effort is under way right now to agree on the man to be designated heir-apparent.

With no warning, the 69-year-old prime minister was taken to a London hospital Tuesday night for removal of a prostate obstruction to his bladder. His doctor said he probably would be operated on Thursday and he would not be fully active "for at least two or three months."

The immediate reaction in political circles was that Macmillan, after fending off demands for his resignation produced by the Profumo scandal, must at last surrender the party's reins.

But some observers thought he might recover and still lead the Conservatives in the crucial election battle with the opposition Labor party.

Valachi Set For Story On Mob Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi, the rasping historian of Cosa Nostra, brings his crime chronicle up to the present today with a story of mob warfare in the streets of Brooklyn.

A dozen men have been cut down by gunfire or vanished mysteriously between February 1961 and Aug. 9 in the highly publicized feud between the Gallo and Profaci gangs operating out of Brooklyn.

In his opening testimony before the Senate Investigations subcommittee, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the murderous rivalry has caused enough concern in the publicity-shy crime syndicate — which Valachi calls Cosa Nostra — that its ruling commission is considering stepping in.

Shootings, knifings and beatings have been attributed to the battle between the two gangs. Lawrence Gallo, one of three brothers leading the Gallo outfit, was in the process of being garroted in a Brooklyn restaurant Aug. 20, 1961, when police happened in.

The men escaped and Gallo survived—only to land in jail where he is serving a four-month term for falsifying an application for a federal housing mortgage.

13 Yanks Missing In Viet Air Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Thirteen Americans were missing in Central Viet Nam today after the crash of two U.S. Marine helicopters and a Vietnamese fighter-bomber.

The fight pilot, a U.S. Air Force captain, was believed killed along with a Vietnamese observer.

A U.S. military spokesman said their plane crashed and exploded Tuesday night in a dive-bombing run on Communist positions south of Da Nang, in the Central Viet Nam highlands. The spokesman said there was no evidence either man survived.

City Club Fights Order On Permit Suspension

The Veterans Social Club, 1042-44 Pennsylvania Ave., has filed a motion in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon, seeking to suspend an order issued Aug. 29 by the State Liquor Control Commission at Columbus under which the club's liquor license is scheduled to be suspended for 150 days, beginning Thursday.

The state suspension order was issued after the club was cited for alleged violation of liquor regulations, including an accusation that it sold whisky by the bottle to be taken off the premises.

Weirton Has 'Em All

Hancock's 2nd In State With Gambling Licenses

Hancock County — or rather, Weirton — has the dubious distinction of being second in West Virginia for the number of gambling stamps.

In the Panhandle community, with a population of 28,000, one of every 740 citizens holds a $50 federal wagering stamp.

Records of the Internal Revenue Service at Parkersburg show that 211 of the wagering stamps have been issued in the state this fiscal year, most of them in northern West Virginia.

Payment of the $50 levy puts the individual in the clear with the federal government. With the state, it's another matter. The number of wagering stamps issued in West Virginia is approximately the same as it has been in past years.

Marion County—with Fairmont the county seat — leads in number of issued stamps with 49. Forty-three applicants gave Fairmont addresses.

In Fairmont, a city of 27,000, one of every 635 citizens paid the $50 federal wagering tax.

Thirty-nine stamps were issued in Hancock County and all gave a Weirton address, several the same address.

Ohio County, where Wheeling is located, is third with 29.

In sharp contrast are Kanawha and Cabell counties, where the state's two largest cities—Charles-

House Okays $47.2 Billion Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $47.2-billion military appropriation bill that awaits President Kennedy's signature includes $73.1 million for a mobile system of missile defense that an enemy would find hard to hit.

The House passed the bill Tuesday with only three dissenting votes and then the Senate shouted it through by voice vote.

The bill's total of $47,220,010,000 represented a compromise between differing House and Senate versions and amounted to $1,794,227,000 less than the President had asked for the Defense Department.

The $73.1 million is for development of a medium-range ballistic missile that could be launched from moving railroad cars, trucks or ships, thus making it more difficult for an enemy to pinpoint and destroy them.

Tax Facts

City income tax funds provided $7,500 which Council appropriated in February to finance the initial expense of preparing a "master plan" to guide the community's future growth and development.

'Red Tie' Winner Named Quickly

A winner in the "red tie" contest at Wellsville was registered early today.

Mrs. Edna Arbaugh of Chester Ave. guessed the "Fire Marshal of the Day" before 9 this morning, according to Fire Chief Robert Lewis, who also outlined another phase of the contest.

The contest is being held this week as part of the Fire Prevention Week observance.

A group of men are wearing red neckties. Each day a different one serves as fire marshal of the day. The first person each day to correctly guess the marshal wins a prize.

Lewis said the first person to correctly name the majority of the marshals, or all of them, will be given a $25 Savings Bond.

Anyone who believes they know all the men may contact Chief Lewis or Assistant Chief Robert Lloyd.

Daily winners also receive prizes. The bond is being provided by the volunteer firemen.

Time For A Discreditation

It is too early to guess that Robert G. Baker, secretary to the Democratic majority in the U.S. Senate, may be the answer to the perennial prayer of political partisans. But Mr. Baker now is a strong candidate for the distinction.

He has resigned in the face of an investigation into his business affairs. The investigation has been building up steam in Washington for some time. Mr. Baker is a person of considerable consequence in Democratic circles and is reported to be a protege of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

If something he has done makes him the answer to the perennial prayer of political partisans, he will make at least as many headlines as Billie Sol Estes and will possess one qualification the ineffable Billie Sol lacked.

Billie Sol was too far away to seem real to partisans this side of the Mississippi. He was like something that had been thought of in Hollywood. His Texas-size operations baffled his fellow Americans who think in terms of less than seven digits.

For another thing, a candidate for real distinction in this game of pinning on the donkey must have done something comprehensible. That was another of Billie Sol Estes' failings. His operations were too big to understand.

This kept him from filling the role that was to have been his — the Democratic scapegoat to balance the political account after the "discreditation" of Sherman Adams when he was presidential assistant in the Eisenhower administration.

And Mr. Adams, it will be remembered, was the account balancer for the "mess in Washington" during the Truman administration. If it works out, Mr. Baker may become more distinguished than he ever dreamed of becoming. Every administration can expect to endure at least one "discreditation" to remind voters it is time again to throw the rascals out.

Popular Support For Wheat

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has laid down a broad hint that the Kennedy administration would like to have popular support before going ahead with a Russian wheat deal.

Officially, no deal is in the works. Unofficially, however, educated guessers feel sure the government has sounded out the Soviet Union on the possibility of selling not only surplus U.S. wheat but other commodities. The New York Times says the government has been approached for a deal.

This is what Sen. Mansfield has in mind when he talks about popular support. The Kennedy administration, already under the accusation of being over-considerate of the Soviet Union, would be foolish to push a policy that would itensify the accusation.

THE PUSH must come from those who have the most at stake—wheat growers in the first instance, other exporters later on.

Wheat farmers are mindful of one thing almost everybody else is inclined to overlook. Their next year's wheat crop will be sold in the nearest thing to a free market that has existed since overproduction and underconsumption wiped out wheat farmers in the great agricultural slump that turned into the Great Depression of the '30s.

A majority of wheat farmers now stand convinced that federal control isn't the way out of their difficulties. But all wheat farmers stand convinced that they need the price support a brisk foreign market would give them. A wheat deal with Russia, if one could be made for hard cash, would not blot up the U.S. surplus, but it would firm up the free market price for wheat.

THIS IS NOT a decision that can be made on general principles.

It calls for particularized reasoning and direct-line logic.

Those who want to fight the cold war with every weapon at their command, including wheat, will find themselves at cross-purposes with wheat farmers and wheat-state politicians less interested in the cold war than improving the market for wheat.

Go Back To Azusa

'Yes, Virginia, there is a Slippery Rock College,' The Press-Courier of Oxnard, Calif., commented wryly on page one last week.

The sarcastic verification stemmed from some questioning of the Pennsylvania college's listing in the national football scores.

Tri-State area residents know very well there is a Slippery Rock — in fact, quite a few are graduates of the fine Butler County school.

It must be admitted the name might stike humorous fancy of the uninitiated. But far be it from Californians to tongue-in-cheek any community names — what with their Azusa, Covina and Cucamonga . . .

Until Someone Redesigns Humans

Do high speeds on the highways disturb you? Take a look at the latest thinking on the subject.

In a story out of Detroit, Associated Press Auto Writer Charles C. Cain reported on the transformation of auto tires.

He said in part, "One of the major problems the tire industry faces now is the ever-increasing speed on the nation's superhighways. Some people feel that a legal speed limit of 200 miles per hour may be possible within a few years."

Tire makers have accomplished wondrous things with their product. If they can build tires that will withstand the brutal punishment inflicted by aircraft landing at high speeds, why should anyone doubt they can develop auto tires that will endure for long distances at 200 miles per hour?

But sound tires or not, a legal speed limit of 200 miles per hour appears entirely irrational for one cause: the human element.

Perhaps we have no more cause for alarm than those who thought 60 miles was beyond the realm of possibility in the horse-and-buggy days.

But until someone redesigns human beings with greater intelligence and faster responses than they now possess, a 200 m.p.h. speed limit would add more mayhem to an already frightening highway toll.

Gratitude

By Truman Twill

I am grateful to the New York Yankees, the New York Times and the Los Angeles Dodgers for the same reason.

And also for this reason I am grateful to the original Cleveland Browns, Walt Disney, Jim Thorpe, Mistinguette, Joe Louis and Thomas Jefferson.

Someone is needed to set standards everybody else must measure up to. If no one excelled, the world would drone along on the same level of dull mediocrity. There would be no thrills.

But as long as someone comes along every few years and becomes dissatisfied with the tendency of things to turn commonplace, progress will be assured.

There is only one reason the Los Angeles Dodgers emerged from the World Series as the new pace-setters of baseball. They had to be that good and a little better to beat the New York Yankees, long the undisputed possessors of the greatest baseball organization.

THE DODGERS now share the distinction of having a great organization. That's good. A few years ago, the original Cleveland Browns demonstrated what could be done with the organization technique applied to professional football. Other teams had to raise their standards to compete. Pro football was the beneficiary.

The New York Times does everything so well all other papers must compare their efforts with its efforts. Walt Disney brought imagination to entertainment; he set a new standard.

Jim Thorpe's athletic prowess challenges every athlete who aspires to occupy a niche in fame. Mistinguette's legs were so shapely they destroyed all previously existing standards, which had run to piano legs, tree trunks, Indian clubs and king-size vases.

All future heavyweights must be as consistently deadly as Joe Louis or check out as second-raters. American public leaders must approach the profundity and integrity of Thomas Jefferson, or be categorized as imitations of the real thing.

WHY, THEN, do most people chortle when the standard setters are knocked from their perches? There's no mystery about it.

It's because most people are locked into mediocrity by their own lack of talent and must rationalize their inferiority. Never having stood on a pedestal themselves, they suffer twinges of jealousy when others stand on pedestals. They secretly hope, even if they are among the noisiest admirers of the temporal gods, to be around when the gods are knocked to the ground. They want to trample on the remnants and sob.

I never hated the New York Yankees because they were good. I only hated people who hated the New York Yankees because they were so good they made other ball teams look bad.

I wanted to think some other organization someday would be equally good. The Los Angeles Dodgers are equally good. Any Doubt?

This 'n That

A total of 1,130,393 Americans have perished in all the U. S. wars. In the Revolutionary War there were 4,435 killed; in the War of 1812 there were 2,260 fatalities; Mexican War 13,283; Civil War 529,332; Spanish-American War, 2,446; World War I, there were 116,563; World War II, there were 407,828, and in the Korean War there were 54,246.

The claim of being the father of the modern automobile has been advanced by two men in history. One is Joseph Cugnon, a Frenchman who in 1769 constructed a steam-carriage running on three wheels. The American claimant is George B. Selden of Rochester, who in 1896 obtained a patent for a gas-engine automobile.

The occupations which are "hardest on the eyes", according to recent findings, are as follows: Stenographers, teachers, draftsmen, physicians, dentists, clergymen, lawyers, jewelry and watch-makers, tailors, barbers and engravers.

Lost In His Own Wilderness

Japanese Criticize U.S. Bases

By Victor Riesel

PITTSBURGH

This iron city and far-off Fukuoka in southern Japan have one thing in common. Steel is made in each. But that's where the similarity ends. Fukuoka's mills sell steel in the U.S. We don't sell steel there. But nonetheless the honorable gentlemen of the Fukuoka City Assembly do not appear to like the Americans.

Victor Riesel

Recently they passed a resolution condemning the basing of U.S. fighter jets and atomic subs in Japan. The city council then dispatched the message to the U.S. military authorities, U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer and to the Japanese federal government demanding that we get out.

The city fathers also alerted the citizenry—many of whom work in the big steel mills there—to join in the fight against the United States.

Ever alert to jab at us, the Japanese unions, whose members earn a good living from products transported to and sold in the United States, joined in the assault.

They were led by the National Railway Workers' Union whose members also earn part of their living transporting freight to waterfronts for shipment and dumping into the United States.

THIS DUMPING, as President Kennedy was told privately by the U.S. Steel Co. chairman, Roger Blough, and The United Steel Workers' Union president, David McDonald, is just one aspect of the foreign steel competition which has cost America 50,000 jobs.

This dumping by Japan and Common Market countries comes at a time when the basic steel industry employment is down to 409,000 men from 535,000 some five years ago.

How does the Japanese steel industry throw thousands of our men onto the street to pound the pavements in search of their daily bread in the smokestacked environs of this city and other steel communities?

I have before me a confidential memorandum prepared for some of those who have seen President Kennedy on the matter. Of the various documents made available to me here, I chose this one because it talks of pipe—just plain steel pipe.

IT'S USED for playground equipment for the children of the land. Welded standard steel pipe is used in plumbing systems for homes, office buildings and factories. It goes into heating, air conditioning and sprinkling systems and into construction work. We all use it.

In 1962, foreign producers dumped more than $79 million worth of such pipe into the United States. Whenever our producers lowered their prices, the foreign manufacturers lowered theirs. It became impossible to compete with them.

These imports cost U.S. workers 9.3 million man hours in mining, transporting, producing and finishing. This would have provided work for some 5,000 full time employes. The pay loss due to this importation in 1962 alone was some $38.7 million.

The Japanese steel industry was the biggest gainer. It dropped more than half this foreign steel pipe into the United States.

Japan also makes a heavy profit by throwing scores of other steel products into our home markets.

OF COURSE, this competition is not limited to sales inside the United States. Our steel industry used to do a big business in exports of the metal. Now the Japanese and Common Market lands have ganged up on the U.S. industry. The estimate is that such competition from abroad has cost the U.S. workers some 50,000 jobs.

If the United States had been able to maintain its 1953-1957 average participation in world export trade and foreign dumping here had not cut into the field, there would have been an additional $360 million a year in the pay envelopes of steel industry employes in 1962.

True, international competition is a tough and complicated business. And, to rework an old phrase, those who can't stand the heat, should get away from the blast furnace—if they are inefficient. But we are not.

The United States just can't compete with what the steelworkers here call slave wages abroad. Yet we have to.

But why then do the Japanese make the tea bitter by harassing and insulting us while they take our dollars?

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

It is in regard to the article written by your sports writer, Bob Duffy, about the Wellsville-East Liverpool game that I am referring.

I think, as I am sure many other Wellsville fans do, that this article was biasly written. When you have a team record, such as the one East Liverpool now has, it is something to be proud of, not boasted about, as was apparent in this article, until you lower your standards. It is people with this superior attitude that you, Bob Duffy have, that turns others against your team.

Who are you to judge the ability of the Wellsville team? Just because East Liverpool has more to choose from to compose a football team, Wellsville does not have to be so unjustly underestimated by predicting a 50-0 score in the favor of the Potters.

In other words, listing us as no competition at all. We have been known to pull a few upsets you know. Although we didn't win the game, we are proud to know that we are the first team in Ohio to score on the Potters, and while the Potter first string was playing, and that we did prove to be competition to your team by doing so.

Educational Fallacy

By David Lawrence

Unemployment Seen Due To Lack Of Demand

Fallacies sometimes get a long start over truth. It takes a long time to dispel them.

One of the fallacies of the day is that lack of education is responsible for most of the nation's unemployment and that a high percentage of Negroes, for instance, are out of work today just because they do not have enough education.

David Lawrence

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has, however, just pointed out that the unemployment rate for male workers of all races having an eighth-grade education or less rose in the five-year period from 1957 to 1962 by about one-half, while the unemployment rate for those who graduated from college more than doubled.

Mr. Heller spoke before the American Council on Education the other day. He didn't discuss any aspects of the racial controversy. He emphasized only the relation between education generally and employment opportunities. He dispelled, incidentally, a widespread fallacy about "automation" as the cause of much of today's unemployment. He said:

"Though total unemployment has been consistently higher since 1957 than in the years before, its general pattern has not changed significantly. . . .

"If 'automation' were generating a new surge of technical unemployment, it surely would be reflected in rising relative unemployment of those with low educational attainment and shrinking relative rates for those with college educations but the evidence is to the contrary."

DR. HELLER revealed that, among those workers with even a little college education, the unemployment figure also rose, in contrast to the group with an eighth-grade education or less, where unemployment showed a sizable drop. He added:

"It doesn't appear that the ranks of the unemployed have been increasingly swollen by persons of low competence, nor that shortages of trained college graduates now block the path to full employment and thus threaten to frustrate the stimulus of tax cuts and other expansionary policy."

Dr. Heller said his conclusions are supported also by a comparison of the years 1954 and 1962, when the unemployment rate for highly trained professional technical workers, averaging over 16 years of school, was exactly the same in both years.

He pointed out that education and skill are very important — that, "whether the economy is booming or stagnating, the most poorly educated come off second best," and that "a grade-school graduate is five times as likely to be unemployed as a college graduate." He then declared:

"But even if we could wave a magic wand and make every worker a college graduate, we would not solve the unemployment problem. There simply aren't enough jobs — not enough holes of any kind, square or round — to absorb both the unemployed, the technologically displaced and the new entrants all at once.

"High unemployment must be laid primarily at the door of insufficient demand. It's an old-fashioned economic ailment. . . , the $11 billion tax program is the centerpiece of policy to generate that demand and create the needed jobs."

OPINIONS WILL differ as to whether a one-time "shot in the arm" will provide the cure. For the task of job creation is one that the politicians constantly ignore. Many of them in Congress have made an alliance with the labor-union monopoly. While there are laws to prevent employers from conspiring together to fix prices, there are no laws to prevent unions, operating on an industrywide basis, from increasing wage costs which force prices up higher than the consumer will absorb at the time. The result is unemployment.

Street "demonstrations" condemning racial discrimination in employment will not create new jobs. They may lessen some of the discrimination, but, in some instances, such demands can be met only by discrimination against whites to provide jobs for Negroes.

The bigger challenge in job creation lies in the field of economic opportunity for everybody.

Civil rights legislation will not solve the problem. The time devoted to that controversy will only postpone the day when Congress comes to grips with measures dealing with unemployment for all citizens.

JOB CREATION deserves more attention than it is getting today inside and outside the administration. Capital is available for investment, but only in businesses that earn a fair return and pay equitabe dividends.

Small businesses have a hard time making good profits because their wage costs are affected by the high scales of their bigger competitors. Expansion, therefore, is related to profits. Employment is naturally increased when demand for goods increases. But in an unstable economy, demand fluctuates. The rise in the cost of living, for instance, means a cut in the purchasing power of the dollar. This produces an unstable economy and the result is unemployment.

Danish Astronomer

By Kenneth Fitzgerald

In 1675 Danish astronomer Ole Roemer discovered that light travels with a definite speed. By timing eclipses of Jupiter's satellites and noting his observations differed from predictions depending on the Earth - Jupiter distance, he made a yardstick trillions of miles long. Roemer was the second great Danish star gazer. Tycho Brahe, a century before, brought observational astronomy to its pre-telescope peak.

Ejnar Hertzsprung, another Dane, one of the greatest astronmers of our time, is now in his 90th year. His principal contributions to astronomy are his investigations into relationships between stellar colors, brightness and size.

In 1905 Hertzsprung noted red stars fall into two categories: bright and faint. He suggested the bright ones are giants, larger than faint red stars with the common color proving they have similar chemical compositions.

EIGHT YEARS later the late Henry Russell, of Princeton University devised a graph plotting Hertzsprung's color - size relationship for stars of all colors. The horizontal scale or abscissa lists color types from blue to white to yellow to red.

Vertically, along the ordinate, is a special scale of brightness from faint at the bottom to very bright at the top.

On the graph, or Hertzsprung-Russell Diagram, the positions of every star for which data is available gets plotted.

Most stars fall somewhere on the diagonal from hot, bright "young" stars of simple chemical composition to cool, faint stars of simple chemical composition to cool, faint stars who have exhausted themselves in "old age."

This main sequence diagonal seems to show the probable life history of a star. The sun is central in the middle age group where most stars congregate.

Above the Main Sequence lie the cool, gaseous red giants and super-giants. Below are the hot, dense white dwarf stars — some smaller than the earth. Enough is known about the various basic star types near enough to examine closely to assume stars in other parts of the universe are no different than those only a few trillion miles away.

THE H-R DIAGRAM, or its most recent refinement, the Morgan Diagram is a feature of every present day book on astronomy. It's also the working astronomer's most useful tool for noting stellar relationships.

Recently, H-R Diagrams for galaxies, each with billions of stars have been proposed. In the great controversy over the origin of the universe both sides refer frequently to the H-R Diagram and what it reveals to bolster their arguments.

Einstein's Special Theory of Relativity was published the same year as Hertzsprung's original giant-dwarf star suggestion. Other new ways of examining the universe, its origin and its probable future.

Group Convenes 2nd Time To Air Laughlin Firings

A joint union - management discharge committee convened again today at U. S. Potters Association headquarters to review the cases of five employes who were released from their jobs during a strike a week ago at the Homer Laughlin China Co.

No decision was reached in the first session yesterday afternoon so the committee agreed to another meeting today.

With the membership divided equally between union and management, it is comprised of John Thompson of the Hall China Co., John Pinney of the Harker China Co., and Charles F. Jordan, secretary-treasurer, and James Slaven, a vice president, of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

A spokesman said the contract procedure calls for appointment of a fifth member mutually agreeable to both sides if the four-member committee is unable to reach a decision.

The five employes, members of Local 141, were discharged, then reinstated at least temporarily as an outgrowth of a laborer's dispute at Laughlin's.

The Giants of 1933 won 91 games and took the National League flag but the New York club two years later won the same number and finished third.

Democrats Open Headquarters In 6th St. Structure

A meeting of the City Democratic Central Committee Tuesday night marked the opening of the party's headquarters for the Nov. 5 general election in a storeroom at 114 E. 6th St.

The committee was advised of a meeting of the Democratic Boosters Club tonight at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex, when Larry Finlay, president, will question candidates on their stands on several issues.

Mrs. Iris Applegate, county chairwoman, invited the candidates to a meeting of the women's club Thursday night, also at the Potters Savings annex.

Leo Payne, central committee chairman and head of the billboard committee, reported that 15 billboard advertisements are in place. He said candidates will attend the annual banquet of Trades and Labor Council Oct. 19 at St. Aloysius School Hall.

Fifty-one attended. Finlay led the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Brush Blaze Flares Again

A stubborn brush and woods fire on the farm of Charles Coleman off Stagecoach Rd. in Liverpool Township continues to defy the efforts of area firemen.

A bulldozer was used Monday night to dig a trench around the fire line in an effort to halt the burning. It broke out again Tuesday.

Charles Heffner, an investigator and fire-fighter for the Ohio Forestry Division, said the Glenmoor and Liverpool Township East and West departments fought the blaze last night until 10.

A heavy pall of smoke hung over the Klondyke section of East End Tuesday afternoon and evening, carried there by the wind. The burning section lies on the hillside above Klondyke and extends toward the State Line along the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd.

Heffner said the fire is burning through roots underground and is liable to break out anywhere.

Several thousands of gallons of water have been used. Members of the volunteer auxiliaries have been providing food and refreshments for the men fighting the blaze.

The fire has been burning almost continuously since Sept. 25.

Firemen poured six to seven thousands of gallons of water on the area again last night.

About three more acres burned over. Nineteen men from the Dixonville station, a crew from LaCroft and four or five men from Glenmoor aided last night.

The fire broke out in an area firemen thought was completely extinguished.

Today marks the two-week anniversary of the fire. One of the men commented "Maybe we ought to get the men together at the scene and have a party."

Woman Hurt In Car Crash

A Newell woman whose car crashed on a rural road in Hancock County Tuesday night was in "fairly good" condition today in City Hospital, where a passenger was treated for injuries received in the mishap.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said Frances L. Miller, 20, of 600 Washington St., Newell, was westbound on Park Rd. when her car struck a tree stump after leaving the highway.

The accident happened at 10:30 a mile east of the road's exit on Route 66 south of Waterford Park.

The driver was treated at the hospital for contusions of the left knee. A passenger, Miss Donna Morrison, 23, of Box 483, Newell, was admitted with a fractured right collarbone.

Deputies said the owner of the vehicle, which was demolished, is Laird W. O'Hanlon, 818 Cadmus St. The accident, 118th in the county in 1963, still is under investigation.

WIDOW NAMED. Mrs. Mary E. Stewart has been named new Hancock County clerk by county commissioners, filling a vacancy created by the death last week of her husband, Donald G. Stewart of Pughtown. She has been employed in the Courthouse in New Cumberladn since 1937.

the month - long trip up the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers, and on to the Monongahela, and his son, Joe, 16, was helper. The cowhands were quartered in a tent perched on the top deck of the barge.

Described as a Brahma - type steer with short horns and dark brown, the herd was fed as the tow locked at Montgomery Island Dam.

They are fed 70 bags of grain twice a day, using a conveyor system that lifts the food from the hull, which also carries fresh water.

The towboat, the diesel Northern, will dock at Elizabeth, Pa., on the Monongahela and transfer the steers to railroad cars for the trip to the Buck and Doe farm.

The barge is a former auto transfer type converted for the steer shipment. The tow of six loaded barges and seven empties is from the Union Barge Line's Southern Transfer Division, which ordinarily operates on the lower rivers.

The cross - bred Santa Gertrudis cattle no doubt became a little homesick for the wide - open Texas range during the journey. The barge was delayed a few days in the Mississippi River due to groundings in the shallow channel near Memphis, Tenn.

down of the green coloring (chlorophyll) in the leaves. Shortening of days meaning less sunlight and cooler weather results in less chlorophyll produced in the leaf. There is also a decrease in the production in the leaf. There is also a decrease in the production of the plant hormone, auxin, which permits the formation of a corky layer of cells known as abscission or separation cells.

This layer is nature's way of getting ready for winter. The leaf is no longer useful to the tree so it is shed by means of the separation layer. The layer also serves as a seal to prevent the scar where the leaf was attached from seeping sap, the life blood of the tree.

It is the only known case in nature where a bandage is applied before the wound occurs.

ASIDE FROM their picturesque beauty, the leaves are beginning to fall more rapidly now and are covering local lawns and patios, in addition to clogging the gutters.

Then there's the added threat to serious woods and brush fires. The long dry spell has left the woodlands tinder - dry and signs banning outdoor fires are posted at Tomlinson Run State Park and other areas.

Some of the trees in the woods are already bare of leaves, but mostly the shedding has just begun. Autumn splendor is at its peak, and the show will probably last only a little longer.

Train

ficer Duffy it believed it would be able to halt the eastbound freight, but could not contact the westbound train in time.

Officer Jack Strobel hurried to the Mulberry St. crossing in East End, where he flagged down the westbound freight.

Patrolman H. W. Bosworth stationed himself on the tracks at Jefferson St., ready to flag down the eastbound train. But it apparently was halted in the meantime through signals from the tower.

It was all over in a matter of minutes.

While the patrolmen were hurrying to take up stations to halt the trains, Officers Carter and Walsh went to an all-night service station on E. 3rd St., little over a block from the crossing, and got a wrecker operator to tow the sweeper off the tracks.

The westbound freight, bound from Conway to Columbus, was hauling 105 cars. It was in charge of a crew from Columbus.

The eastbound freight was a local work train operating between Wellsville and Conway with about 30 cars. J. R. Coakley of East Liverpool was engineer.

Three stamps were issued in Kanawha County and six in Cabell.

The IRS records showing who bought stamps are open to the public, including law enforcement officers.

Whether possession of a wagering stamp would be sufficient evidence for a gambling conviction in a state court is questionable. Some reason that a man might buy a wagering stamp, but take no bets.

Three stamps also were issued by the IRS office to person giving an address in West Alexander, Pa., just across the state line from Ohio County. They were issued to Albert M. King and Joseph A. Tankovist, who gave Windmill Truckers Center, Inc., West Alexander, Pa., as their address.

A stamp also was issued to Windmill Truckers Center.

Chamber Board Reviews Plans For Fall Park Tour

Plans for a fall outing and dinner scheduled next Wednesday were reviewed Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce.

The itinerary was outlined for the tour, principally covering the Beaver Creek State Forest Park. A chartered bus will leave the rear of the former Bus Terminal at 3 p. m.

The trip will conclude with dinner at 6:30 at Elkrun Grange. The tour is for Chamber members, their wives and guests. E. R. Chandler, executive manager, said fall tree foliage is expected to be at the height of its beauty at the time of the trip. Reservations will close Saturday.

The board also voted to endorse State Issue No. 1 on the Nov. 5 general election ballot. It would continue a one-cent cigarette tax originally levied in 1955. The proposal would provide $250 million, including $175 million that would go to state-supported universities and colleges.

The remaining $75 million would be used for capital improvements, including $35 million as loans for distressed public school districts; $25 million for conservation, parks and recreation and $15 million for state facilities. The Chamber board noted some of the allotment for recreation and parks is expected to come back to Columbiana County for further development of Beaver Creek Park.

The board also discussed arrangements for the Chamber's fall membership meeting Oct. 30 at St. Aloysius Parochial School Hall. The program will be in charge of the East Liverpool Merchants Association.

The board was advised four members have indicated so far they expect to attend the 70th annual meeting of the Ohio Chamber Oct. 23 at Columbus. The delegation also expects to attend an industrial development clinic the afternoon of Oct. 22, arranged by the Ohio Department of Development with the cooperation of the industrial development department of the Ohio Chamber.

Both sessions will be held at the Deshler - Hilton Hotel.

Reports were heard on recent activities of the merchants' group; the Chamber's part in observance of National Fire Prevention Week, and dedication of the north end of the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway in September at Ashtabula. Several Chamber members attended the dedication.

Next meeting will be Nov. 12.

Lausche Offers Bill To Avert Ship Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would allegedly prevent work stoppages on U.S. ships because of disputes between two labor unions has been introduced by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio.

The measure would give the secretary of labor the power to settle disputes similar to those which have tied up the nuclear ship Savannah and the passenger ship America.

The Ohio senator said Tuesday that union jurisdictional disputes which end in strikes damage ship operators and exploit the rights of American citizens.

"This bill provides that there shall be no strike, lockout or interrruption of work in connection with any dispute between two labor unions serving the merchant marine," Lausche said.

Negro Official Seeks 'Place To Hang Hat'

HOPEWELL, N.J. (AP)— Lawrence N. Houston, the first Negro ever appointed superintendent of a New Jersey state institution, says he is "looking for a place to hang my hat."

"It's hectic. There's never a dull moment," Houston said of his new post as director of the Highfields project for rehabilitating juvenile offenders.

"I get here at 6 a.m. and cook breakfast with the boys," Houston said, "and some nights it's pretty late when I get home."

Houston, 35, took over at Highfields after five years as a psychologist at a New Jersey reformatory.

Verdict Of Guilty Voted By Jurors In Check Charge

A Common Pleas Court jury of nine women and three men deliberated about a half hour Tuesday afternoon at Lisbon before returning a verdict of guilty against Austin Wayne Hoschar, 36, of 475 Mulberry St., charged with uttering and publishing a fraudulent check.

Judge Joel H. Sharp, who presided at the two-day trial, delayed sentencing to permit the defendant time to file a motion for a new trial, if he wishes.

Hoschar also was indicted for forgery. The second case has not been heard. Hoschar was arrested by East Liverpool police after a rooftop chase in East End.

The trial began late Monday morning. The judge gave the charge to the jury at 1 p. m. The verdict was returned at 1:50.

The court began immediately with the trial of Gene Daniel Boals, 33, of Salem R. D. 4, indicted on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I have wooden cabinets in my kitchen. My husband was so annoyed by the recipes, paper and plastic bags lying around . . . he went out and bought some mouse traps at the dime store. He removed the "thumb" from the traps, sprayed the traps with some yellow paint to match my kitchen decor, and screwed them to the inside of all my cabinet doors. Both upper and lower.

Now all I have to do is to put the clippings and bags under the spring and it holds them beautifully. It gets the clutter out of the way and I always know where everything is.

The best trap of all is the one he put on the door under my kitchen sink.

Now instead of folding the wet dishcloth and putting it under my sink over the water pipe (where it would sometimes mildew) or across the neck of the faucet, I just pull this little clip out and hang the dishcloth right in the trap. It dries beautifully.

You can also hang a dish mop by its string head in one of these traps.

KIRE VIRGINIA.

DEAR HELOISE: I removed a stuck stopper in my decanter by placing the decanter in hot water (but not so hot that the glass will break) in an upright position.

I put a couple of ice cubes in a wash cloth and held them on the stopper. The hot water made the decanter expand while the ice cubes caused the stopper to contract.

Presto, they came apart.

This also works on glasses stuck together . . . only instead of using ice cubs to fill the top glass just fill it with cold water.

LYNN B.

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

DEAR LADIES: Did you know that when you cut hardboiled eggs for deviling, slice them for salads, or any other reason. . . .

You can DIP the knife in salad oil and the egg will cut perfectly.

I just discovered this! Try it.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I've got little bugs in my cabinets. I find them in everything. My neighbor says they are weevils. What can I do?

MATILDA S.

DEAR MATILDA: Don't feel bad. We all get 'em once in a while. (Many grocers have written that they receive the "stuff" in this state and even they can't help it!) The worst offenders, according to letters from home-makers and grocers are meal, paprika, flour and flour mixtures.

By placing the products in fruit jars and capping the lid tightly you can at least see 'em and discard the stuff . . . if it is contaminated. At least the jars keep the weevils in home! He (or she) can't jump from one nest to another if capped in.

Many manufacturers put pieces of bay leaf into condiments, flours, meal and mixtures when shipping them. Try a bay leaf in the jars of products you don't use often.

Also those items which are susceptible to weevils can be kept in your deep freeze! Did you know that? It's superb! Try it. Flour does not freeze.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I remove mildew by washing the mildewed garment in hot suds, moistening it with lemon juice and salt and letting it dry in the sun. If the stain is very old . . . bleach with hydrogen peroxide. Be sure to rinse well.

MRS. S. E. WALKER.

And, ladies, BE CAREFUL to see if your material is colorfast. I suggest SPOT TESTING a piece first.

Build Now, Pay Less, Citizen's Group Proposes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Citizens for Ohio's Future, a group supporting Ohio's $250 million capital improvements bond issue, has issued figures which it says show that the state should build now and pay less.

Thomas F. Patton, chairman of the group, said Tuesday that experience indicates construction costs will increase about 3 per cent each year for the next 10 to 20 years, and that interest rates will also be about 3 per cent.

He explained that the bond would be paid off by continuing the penny-a-pack cigarette tax authorized in 1955 in a similar $150 million bond issue.

"Financing any capital improvement on a pay-as-you-go basis would require new or additional taxes to raise money," Patton said. "Funds collected from these new taxes would have to be held until an amount sufficient to pay for the contemplated improvements had been accumulated."

Saxbe Gives Opinion On Fire Emergencies

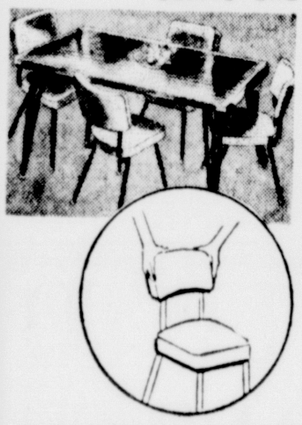

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe has ruled that township trustees can operate or contract for operation of emergency squads and rescue vehicles only in connection with fire protection. The opinion was requested by Ralph A. Hill, prosecuting attorney for Clermont County.

The attorney general also ruled that the position of township clerk is incompatible with being a member of the board of health of a general health district. That opinion was requested by Prosecutor Thomas R. Spellerburg of Seneca County.

Weirton, Ferry Unbeaten

Tough Road Seen For ELHS During 2nd Half Of Season

It's intermission now but Friday night the East Liverpool Potters kick off the second half of the 1963 season after wading through the first five contests undefeated.

If the Potters are a "second half" club then they could go all the way this season but the schedule for the next five games appears much tougher that the five opponents which are behind the Potters.

Two opponents coming up in the "second half" are undefeated while another has lost only one game. Weirton, ranked as the No. 1 team in West Virginia, and Martins Ferry, rated among the top 15 teams in Ohio, remain unbeaten even though Ferry was tied by New Philadelphia.

Alliance, one of the state's powerhouses year-after-year, only shows one defeat and that was to mighty Massillon.

Friday night's opponent, Youngstown Rayen, has a 2-2 record but only lost two games by a total of eight points. Salem is the other opponent remaining on the schedule and owns a 2-3 record but one victory was a gift as the Quakers were awarded a forfeit from Ravenna when that school used an ineligible player. Ravenna had beaten the Quakers.

Youngstown Rayen will pose quite a threat to East Liverpool's unbeaten record and also its lofty seventh place rating.

The Potters, sailing along undefeated and rated high in the state, make quite a handsome target for an opponent to shoot down.

A look at Rayen's record quickly indicates the Youngstown eleven could be the team to stop the Potters.

Rayen lost its opener to Akron South, 18-16, but the score at halftime was Akron 18 and Rayen 0. Youngstown made quite a few mistakes in the first half but came to life to almost knock off the Akron powerhouse.

Akron South is the same team which upset highly-ranked Warren 20-12 last Friday night and moved to the No. 10 spot in the state ratings.

Rayen dropped its second game to Youngstown Ursuline, ranked the No. 1 team in that steel city and ranked high in the state.

Coach Ralph Robinette's team finally won its first contest by walloping a good Cardinal Mooney eleven, 28-0, then last Saturday scored an easy 32-8 victory over Youngstown East.

Another 700 Series.

Blazer Hits 700 Series At Head Pin

Ed Blazer has done it again. Blazer recorded the second 700 series of his bowling career when he fashioned a 709 total Monday night at the Head Pin Lanes in East End.

About one year ago, Blazer hit a 723 series at the Friendly Lanes.

Bowling for Weston's Meat Market in the Big League Monday night, Ed put together games of 236, 248 and 225 to eclipse the elusive 700 series.

The total was the highest bowled in the young bowling season this year. The highest series ever hit at the Head Pin was a 721 rolled by Al Sayre in 1961 in open bowling.

Jarman Top Place Kicker For Sooners

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Not many guys spend the summer trying to push down walls with their toes. George Jarman did and it paid off.

Jarman, a stocky 188-pound guard for the Oklahoma Sooners, worked on an isometric-contraction exercise during the summer in an effort to improve his place kicking.

"I would try to push down a wall with my toe," Jarman said. "I didn't hurt any walls but I had some sore toes for a while."

The toes are apparently healed and Jarman is establishing himself as a place-kicker to be reckoned with.

So far this season he has made six conversions in six attempts and has been successful on two of three field goal attempts.

The 5-foot, 8-inch Tulsan kicked a 43-yard field goal against Southern California and was successful from 28 yards away against Clemson. His only unsuccessful attempt was blocked.

Jarman works on his kicking for 20 or 25 minutes before Oklahoma's daily workouts, usually with roommate quarterback Mike Ringer holding.

Jarman, a senior, has been an impressive extra point man for the past two years. As a sophomore, he set a school record with 14 straight. Last year, sharing conversion chores with Butch Metcalf, he was successful on three of five attempts. His career record is 23 of 25.

Wolfe Defeats Bell To Win Club Title

Bob Wolfe of East Liverpool captured the Club Championship at the East Palestine Country Club with a 1 Up Victory over Jim Bell of East Palestine Monday.

Wolfe and Bell played 54 holes before the title was decided.

Tooner Hargraves won the president's cup at the East Palestine course.

An Overwhelming Choice

Cardinals' Keane Named NL Manager Of The Year

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Keane, who piloted the St. Louis Cardinals to a surprising second-place finish, was named today as National League "Manager of The Year" for 1963.

The 51-year-old Redbirds' skipper was an overwhelming choice in the annual Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters. Of the 71 ballots cast, Keane received 53 votes.

Walter Alston, manager of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, was second with 15 votes. Bobby Bragan, whose Milwaukee Braves finished sixth, got the remaining three votes. Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phils, who was "Manager of The Year" in 1962, failed to get a vote this year.

The balloting was based on the team's performance during the regular National League season.

The Cards, who weren't rated as a pennant threat in the pre-season evaluation, stayed in contention for first place most of the year. They began to fade in late August and were in third place, seven games behind the Dodgers on Aug. 30.

In 1962, St. Louis was a sixth-place finisher with an 84-78 won-lost record, 17½ games off the pace.

Despite the lack of a 20-game winner, Keane molded a steady pitching staff that was led by Ernie Broglio and Bob Gibson, both of whom won 18 games. The hitting was solid with Dick Groat, Bill White, Ken Boyer and Curt Flood providing most of the punch.

Stan Musial, in his last year, supplied some key hits down the stretch and young Tim McCarver proved a capable catcher in his sophomore season.

But it was Keane who made the team mesh in his second full season at the helm.

Koufax Has Lofty Ambition To Win More Than Young

NEW YORK (AP) — What makes Sandy run?

A new sports car — and a driving ambition.

Sandy would be the Mr. Koufax who was honored at a luncheon Tuesday as the hero of the World Series, was presented with a new sports car and admitted that his ambition is to win more games than anyone else in baseball.

He has a long way to go — and even the slender southpaw of the Los Angeles Dodgers admits "I'd have to be fortunate to do that."

Koufax has two marks to aim at — the 511 victories posted by Cy Young from 1890-1911 and the current mark being extended by 42-year-old Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, still going strong with 350.

At 27, Koufax is behind Young at the same stage in their careers, but is well ahead of Spahn. Spahn had won only 28 games by the time he was 27 while Koufax has 93 victories after this year's 25-5 record.

Young, however, seems out of reach. He had 120 victories at age 27 and finished with an over-all 511-313 won-lost record when he was 44. If Koufax were to pitch until he was 44—17 more seasons—he would have to average 25 victories a year.

Its not inconceivable, but it's not going to be easy.

"But anyway I'd like to win as many as I can," said Koufax.

Koufax quickly steered the talk away from himself and to the Dodgers as a whole.

"We did everything right for four days," he said of the sweep of the Yankees. "We had fought and scratched to win the pennant. We had the kind of club where every day we needed somebody to do something special.

"I can't help but feel we were fortunate. If the Yankees had beaten us in the fourth game I think they might have taken four in a row."

After the pleasantries, Koufax went outside to get his car, which was parked on the sidewalk in front of the restaurant. On the shiny new car, was a shiny green ticket, courtesy of the New York Police Department.

As someone noted, "Even Koufax can't win 'em all."

Divorce Off For Cepeda's

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Giants first baseman Orlando Cepeda and his wife "are as happy as the day they were married" after a Tuesday in which he filed for divorce then told his attorney to forget the action when newspapers headlined the story.

The rocky 24 hours in Cepeda's marital bliss began Monday night when he appeared at the office of his attorney, Marvin Lewis, and signed a divorce complaint against Anna Cepeda, his wife of nearly three years.

Lewis filed the complaint Tuesday morning, the story broke and Cepeda denied any ideas of divorce.

Lewis got together with Orlando and later told newsmen that the $47,500-per-year Giant admitted signing the complaint.

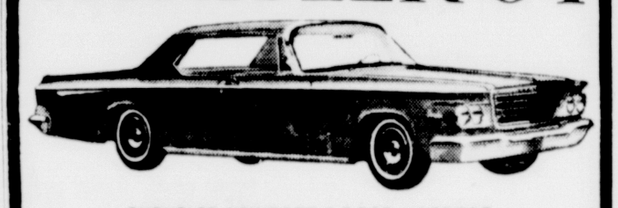

But, said Lewis, Orlando "thought it was not a public filing. He was very shocked to learn the newspapers would find out about it. He further says he is now reconciled and they are as happy as the day they were married."

Lineman's Award Won By Mustang

DALLAS (AP) — John Hughes played himself into a state of exhaustion but he wasn't tired enough that he wanted Air Force Academy to have the ball.

So he wrestled it away from a Falcon and headed for the dressing room at the Cotton Bowl where Southern Methodist had just finished beating Air Force 10-0.

The big linebacker, who played all the way on defense despite a twisted ankle, collapsed in the tunnel leading to the dressing room and Coach Hayden Fry had to revive him with cold towels.

It was such things as this that got Hughes named Lineman of The Week in college football by The Associated Press Tuesday.

Specifically, the 205-pound Texan's efforts that brought him the honor included 11 unassisted tackles and "a million assists", recovering a fumble, batting down passes and hitting a receiver so hard that he jarred the ball loose for a fumble.

All this despite the fact that he was virtually playing on one leg.

Sank Michigan

Staubach Back-Of-Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Jolly Roger Staubach, the pirate-bold quarterback of Navy's unbeaten and fourth-ranked football team, is The Associated Press' Back of the Week for the second time.

Staubach, a 6-foot-2 junior, gained the distinction off his sensational performance in Navy's 26-13 victory over Michigan at Ann Arbor last Saturday when he passed for two touchdowns and ran for another.

Staubach, hero of last year's victory over Army, set an Academy record for the second straight week against Michigan. He completed 14 of 16 passes for 237 yards and ran for another 70.

The total offense mark of 307 wiped out the Academy record of 297 he had set just the week before in a 28-0 romp over William & Mary.

In leading the Middies to three straight victories, Staubach has completed 43 of 55 passes for an incredible 78.2 per cent, for 614 yards and three touchdowns. He also has rushed for 175 yards in 46 tries, for an average of 3.8 yards and two touchdowns. His total offense for three games is 789 yards, an average of 263 a game.

Copestick, Diddle Are Top Beavers

Allen Copestick was chosen as the top lineman and Roger Diddle was named the top back at Beaver Local for their performances in the United game last Saturday.

Coach Ed Stevens said "while we feel that the team didn't do a good job, we fell Copestick and Diddle performed well."

Beaver Local lost a 48-8 decision to United last week.

The Beaver Local Reserves dropped their fourth straight of the season to West Branch, 36-6.

Fred McLaughlin scored the lone TD for the Beavers on an eight-yard run.

Oklahoma Picked To Down Texas; OSU, Navy, 'Bama Seen Winners

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Oklahoma is ranked No. 1 in the college football world and Texas is ranked No. 2.

Saturday these two rivals collide in the athletic showpiece of the Texas State Fair in Dallas. When it is all over, Oklahoma still will be No. 1, ending a string of five straight losses to the Longhorns.

This corner was correct on 39 of 52 picks a week ago for a .750 average. The season's figures are 109-42 for .722.

Oklahoma is the pick because of Jim Grisham's power running and the superb condition of the entire Sooner squad. Texas is hurt with Ernie Koh Jr., the club's star punter and hero of the Texas 9-6 triumph a year ago, out for the season with an injury.

Other picks:

Alabama over Florida: The Florida team has been a disappointment all season.

Navy over Southern Methodist: The Middies, with Roger Staubach at the helm, lead the nation in scoring, in passing yardage and total offense.

Wisconsin over Purdue: Off their respective victories over Notre Dame, the Badgers are a touchdown better.

Southern California over Notre Dame: The Irish are stingy on defense but don't have a consistent offense. The Trojans have Pete Beathard and Hal Bedsole.

Ohio State over Illinois: The Illini are on the way back but haven't come far enough to win two straight in the Big Ten, especially when the Ohio State line-up includes a Don Unverferth and a Dick Van Raaphorst.

Penn State over Army: The Cadets first three fullbacks are hurt and No. 4 is green.

Nebraska over Air Force: A battle of quarterbacks with Nebraska's Dennis Claridge getting the better of the Falcons' Terry Isaacson.

Arkansas over Baylor: The Porkers have lost their game of the season.

Northwestern over Minnesota: Tom Myers will bring the Wildcats home over a rugged defense led by Carl Eller. Your television thriller.

Washington over Oregon State: The Huskies, the disappointment of the Pacific Northwest, get on the right track before the home folks.

Georgia Tech over Tennessee: Billy Lothridge.

Miami over Louisiana State: The Miami Hurricanes have their pass patterns straightened out.

Others: Colorado over Oklahoma State, Iowa over Indiana, Kansas over Iowa State, Michigan State over Michigan, Missouri over Kansas State, Tulsa over Cincinnati and Wichita over Hardin-Simmons.

Dodgers' Sweep Result Of Perfect Book

★ ★ ★ Pitchers Carry Out Instructions ★ ★ ★

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers' stunning four-game World Series sweep over the New York Yankees was the result of a perfect book—actually 19 pages of loose leaf paper — compiled by three top scouts.

Carrying out the instructions and recommendations in the secret report, Dodger pitchers Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podres and Don Drysdale were able to limit the American League's toughest hitting team to four runs and 22 hits, only five for extra bases.

The weapon was provided by the information on the 9 x 12 sheets of loose leaf paper, put together by Director of Scouts Al Campanis and two of his aides, Lefty Phillips and Ted McGrew.

The reports contained information on the strengths and weaknesses of every Yankee in the hitting, fielding and pitching departments. In addition to routine information, the Dodger pitchers learned which batters would lay off certain pitches, which they preferred, which they were most likely to hit—and in what direction the ball would probably travel when hit.

"I have never seen a more thorough scouting report," said Buzzy Bavasi, Dodger general manager.

The players were told which Yankees were fast ball hitters and when they were most likely to try and steal or attempt to hit-and-run. On the other hand, the Dodgers learned when and against whom they could try to take the extra base, and which pitchers could be waited out and which could not.

Campanis, who revealed the nature of the scouting report only in general terms, declined to make public the more personal and secret disclosures in the reports.

"Much of the report was obvious," said Campanis. "We played the Yankees for a power club. We didn't expect them to steal, and they didn't. We didn't expect them to bunt until late in the game, and they didn't. And because of this knowledge, the infield was able to play deep. As a result, Wills and Dick Tracewski were able to take several hits away from the Yankees."

Yankee pitching also was broken down from every angle — a pitchers' best delivery, what to expect when a pitcher is ahead or behind on a count, what pitch a pitcher uses in key spots.

Chamberlain Must Do More Than Score

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When you try to do a rebuilding job on a guy standing seven feet tall and already one of the stars in his field, you take on quite an undertaking.

Yet one of the first moves by new Coach Alex Hannum of the San Francisco Warriors was to do just that with Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer.

Hannum wants Chamberlain and the entire Warrior team to do more moving and vary the offense, which seems to have become stereotyped. Improvement also is needed in Wilt's defensive play.

Otherwise, the Warriors may again finish near the bottom despite Chamberlain's scoring, which averaged 44.8 points per game last season.

After San Francisco finished with a 31-49 record in 1962-63, the first season after switching from Philadelphia, Hannum moved from Syracuse to replace Bob Feerick as coach.

"My idea is that in order to have a better team effort, Wilt must do more than just score," Hannum explained at a news conference before the team embarked on a series of exhibitions against Los Angeles starting Wednesday night in Stockton, Calif.

"The trouble seems to be that ever since high school, he has been trained to receive the ball, pivot and shoot. I don't blame Wilt, I blame those who trained him. He had been told that the best thing he could do to help his club was to score."

WALTER "CHRIS" SCHUMANN, 15-year-old junior at Classical High School in Providence, R. I., who has been armless since birth, is the place kicking specialist for his school. Here, his teammate, Dick Blackman holds the football as "Chris" practices his kicking. (UPI Telephoto)

Giants Will Note Change In Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—When the Cleveland Browns meet the New York Giants in Yankee Stadium Sunday afternoon, the Giants will see a team that has undergone several changes since the Browns beat them in the National Football League opener last year.

In addition to a new coach, the Browns have had a fair - sized shakeup in players. Dub Jones, former Browns star and now an assistant to Coach Blanton Collier, is the man who sends down the plays from the top of the stadium and has made a major contribution to the Browns' perfect record in four games.

Frank Ryan has developed into one of the leading quarterbacks in the league since he took over the passing chores when Jim Ninowski was injured in mid-season last year.

John Brown, who saw very little service as a rookie last year, has come along well at offensive tackle. Gary Collins has developed into the receiver the Browns hoped he would when they made him their first draft choice a couple of years ago. Rookie Larry Benz has done a creditable job at safety.

But undoubtedly the man the Giants will be watching most is fullback Jim Brown. Big Jim is well on his way to regaining the league rushing crown he lost to Jim Taylor of Green Bay last year after holding it for an unprecedented five years.

Brown has gained 664 yards rushing on 78 attempts, while Taylor, his nearest competitor, has 297 yards on 66 carries.

Y. A. Tittle of New York is the league's leading passer with 50 completions in 82 attempts in three games. He missed the game against Pittsburgh, which the Giants lost. Ryan is second with 50 completions in 85 attempts in four games.

A victory for the Giants, who have a 3-1 record, would give th a share of the lead in the NFL's Eastern Conference. They won the conference title last year.

C. Douglas Dillon is Secretary of the Treasury.

EL Runners Finish 2nd At Ambridge

East Liverpool High's cross - country team placed second in a triangular meet Tuesday at Ambridge.

The host Ambridge team finished on top with 25 points while the Potters were second with 30 and Freedom scored 65.

Mike Kastrounis of Ambridge came home first in 10:57 over the 2⅛ mile course and marked the fastest time turned in on the course this year.

Ed Loy finished second and was the first Potter runner across the line while Jon Pilgram was fifth, Curt Battistelli sixth, Sherm Phelps seventh and Joe Massey tenth.

East Liverpool's junior varsity picked up its second win by defeating the jayvees from Ambridge and Freedom.

Joe Golden led the Potters by finishing first while Bill Keys was second, Phil Stewart fourth, Larry Hamilton fifth and Dave Emmerling eighth for a total of 20 points.

Coach Frank Chan will take his team to Pittsburgh for a meet Saturday.

Beaver Local's Freshman Team Tops United, 8-0

The Beaver Local freshman team opened its season with an 8-0 victory over United Tuesday afternoon on the United gridiron.

Rick Dunn scored the game's only touchdown on an eight-yard burst and Ray Ammon ran for the conversion.

The Beaver Local reserve squad will meet Lisbon Saturday at 10 a. m. at Beaver Local.

Navy's 'Jolly Roger' Tops Nation In Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Navy hosted the Jolly Roger then sailed out and sank three enemies. That's not a tale of piracy, its just an indication of how much the Navy football team has depended on Roger Staubach this season and how well the quarterback has responded.

Staubach has run or passed on 101 of Navy's 210 plays in three games this season and has accounted for 61.9 percentage of the team's yardage — 789 yards out of a total of 1,275. He is the No. 1 major college player in total offense and forward passing according to statistics issued today by the NCAA Service Bureau.

The Navy pilot opened with 185 yards against West Virginia, upped it to 297 against William and Mary then hit the season's high of 307 yards last Saturday against Michigan. He has completed 78.1 per cent of his passes for 614 yards and has run for 175 yards.
yards.

The leaders held their own last weekend in most major individual statistical departments, although an injury nearly cost Pete Pedro his rushing lead. The West Texas State star hurt a knee after running seven times for 41 yards against North Texas. His lead shrank to 49 yards over Clarence Williams of Washington State, 360 to 311.

John Simmons of Tulsa and Jimmy Evans of Texas Western caught six passes each to go to the top with 16 and 15, respectively.

Capt. Palmer May Pick Himself For Ryder Team

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Captain Arnold Palmer isn't going to be timid about using Arnold Palmer in the Ryder Cup golf matches against the British, starting Friday.

"I intend to play the men who I think can win for us," the Yank leader from Latrobe, Pa., said Wednesday. "If I feel I am playing well, I won't let my modesty stand in the way. I'll pick myself. If I'm off, to the sidelines I go."

As playing captain and star of the U.S. team, Palmer is in an uncomfortable position and he admits that the job has its drawbacks.

Palmer is optimistic over the Americans' prospects of retaining the stylish gold pitcher they have won 11 of 14 times and never lost on a U.S. course.

The British, playing informally and often hitting optional shots, also found the course to their liking in warm, beautiful weather. Neil Coles and Ireland's Christy O'Connon both shot 69s. Geoffrey Hunt and Brian Huggett had 70s. The others were close to par.

Palmer gave a man-by-man rundown of the American team.

"My iron shots are about as good as they've been in a long time and I'm putting well," said the man who has collected $127,555 in official winnings.

Julius Boros—"He's playing so well it scares me."

Dow Finsterwald—"Better than he has in four or five years."

Gene Littler—"Not at his best but getting to be more sound."

Bill Casper, Jr.—"Fresh after his long layoff with a bad hand, playing well."

Billy Maxwell—"Jerking the ball a bit, but improving."

Johnny Pott—"Playing really well."

Bob Goalby—"Not playing well, having putting troubles."

Tony Lema — "Exceptionally well."

Dave Ragan—"You don't know what he'll do—can go either way, real good or real bad."

Bruins' Oliver Is Off To Fast Start This Year

BOSTON (AP) — Murray Oliver, who centered the National Hockey League's highest scoring line last season, is off to a flying start this year.

The 25-year-old stylist scored twice for the Bruins as Boston gained a 4-4 tie with the Montreal Canadiens in the NHL opener at Boston Garden Tuesday night.

New York plays at Chicago tonight.

Oliver's second goal came with less than two minutes remaining after Canadiens' defenseman Terry Harper had sent the visitors ahead 4-3 four minutes earlier.

And Oliver's line collected a total of six points as wingmates Johnny Bucyk and Tom Williams had two points apiece. Williams scored Boston's first 1963-64 goal and assisted on the final Bruins tally. Bucyk had assists on the second and fourth Boston scores.

Dinsio Appeal To Be Studied By Area Court

LISBON — The 7th District Court of Appeals Tuesday took under study six cases, including an appeal against extradition to West Virginia filed on behalf of Amil Dinsio and two Mahoning County companions charged with a Weirton burglary.

Dinsio, 26, of Poland, along with Daniel Marshall and Harold Dailey of Youngstown, were apprehended near Columbiana March 29 and linked to a burglary of a Weirton man's home the previous night.

Also taken under review as an appeal filed by the Central Service of East Liverpool of a jury verdict of $2,790 for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Graham of Hookstown, who claimed a car purchased from the agency was not new as represented.

The appeal of Robert Kibler and Anna Kibler of East Palestine, filed in connection with a traffic accident, is to be heard later at Youngstown by the court. They sued James R. Holloway of East Palestine R. D. 1 for $100,000 as a result of an accident, but a Common Pleas Court jury ruled for the defendant.

The court yesterday dismissed an appeal by Mrs. Jane Case of Columbiana County from a Common Pleas Court ruling upholding her release from a Courthouse job as a telephone operator.

The court declared Mrs. Case had withdrawn her state retirement funds and in effect, had actually resigned from the post and could not make a claim to her former position from which she had been dismissed by the county commissioners.

Ceramist Tells Experiences In Program Of Foreign Aid

Experiences while serving in plants in Israel, India and Pakistan in the U. S. Foreign Aid program were related to the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society Tuesday night at the Country Club by George A. Kirkendale, associate professor of ceramic engineering at the New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University.

Kirkendale, who spent five years in the government program, said he found the ceramic plants' technology lagging 100 to 150 years behind the U. S.

Under the circumstances, "it was not difficult to make improvements," but there was no opportunity to make sweeping changes in the comparatively brief time he spent in each nation, the professor said.

Kirkendale said that because he holds a degree in ceramic engineering, the foreign nations thought he should be expert in every phase, including glass, cement, enamels and many other lines. Actually, he said, thorough knowledge in those lines can come only from experience that supplements theory.

Fifty heard his address, which was illustrated with color slides. The address followed a buffet dinner.

In his government service, Prof. Kirkendale served as an advisor for the Agency for International Development. A graduate of Toronto University, he also served nine years with the Canadian Bureau of Mines.

Next meeting will be Nov. 8 at Stouffer's Restaurant in Oakland. Richard Rohleder of the Bell Telephone Co. will present a discussion and demonstration.

Anthracite was discovered in Carbon County, Pa., in 1791.

Police Exam Failed By 3

All three men who took the Civil Service examination for eligibility list for Wellsville patrolmen failed to make a passing grade, the Civil Service Commission announced. There is one vacancy on the department. The papers were graded Tuesday.

The examination was held Monday night at City Hall Council Chambers. The Civil Service Commission was to meet tonight to grade the papers, but John Grafton, clerk, is ill and a special meeting was called last night as he may have to enter the hospital.

The commission said it would not reveal the names of the men to avoid embarrassing anyone.

There are two men on the present list. The test was set up at the request of Mayor William Daugherty, who can ask for a new list if it contains less than three names.

The list stood at three until August when Gene K. Hamilton was named to the force. He resigned a short time later.

The names of Charles Amato and Leonard Hephner remain on the list as they have taken the exam within the past two years.

West Virginia was so named when wsetern counties of Virginia rejected secession in 1863.

Traffic Safety Group Discusses Clinic Plans

LISBON — The proposed drivers' improvement clinic was discussed and monthly reports were heard when the Columbiana County Traffic Safety council met Tuesday evening in Village Hall.

Crash Hurts Chester Man

A 21-year-old Chester man was injured when a car in which he was riding collided with another on Carolina Ave. near 7th St., Chester, Tuesday night about 11:10.

William H. Glover Jr., 557 Virginia Ave., was treated at City Hospital for lacerations of the left eye and knee.

Glover was a passenger in a compact auto driven by Thomas Lee Bosworth, 19, of Chester R. D. 1, which collided with a sports coupe driven by Edward Victor, 43, of Piqua as Victor turned into a private drive, police said.

Bosworth was charged with hazardous driving and is scheduled for a hearing Monday before Mayor Harry Abrams. Damage to the cars totaled $700, police estimated.

Planners Set Meeting With State Official

The City Planning Commission, meeting Tuesday night at City Hall, made arrangements to send a delegation to Columbus Oct. 21 to confer with Ross Lowes of the new Ohio Department of Development.

According to tentative plans made last night, the delegation will be comprised of Don Eckert, chairman, and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen, representing the commission, Floyd Murray, chairman of the Council planning committee, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and City Engineer George S. Bloomgren.

The delegation will report at the commission's next meeting Oct. 29 at 7:30 p. m. in the Council chamber at City Hall.

All members attended the session last night, at which the commission conferred with M. R. Cramer of Pittsburgh, a representative of the firm of Carroll V. Hill Associates of Columbus.

The Hill concern tentatively was selected Oct. 1 to prepare a "master plan" to guide East Liverpool's future growth and development.

Council has provided $7,500 as the first installment of the city's share of the plan preparation. The city's overall share of the $37,400 project is expected to be $12,200, with the remainder coming from the federal government.

Nov. 1 is the deadline for the city to submit an application for the two thirds aid from the federal government.

Hall Speaks On Candidacy At GOP Club

Merrill Hall, GOP candidate for mayor, outlined his platform at a meeting of the East Liverpool Area Republican Women's Club Monday night at the campaign headquarters.

Hall said he was interested in and would work toward getting new industry into the area. He said he also would work to create a better atmosphere for the youth and would "see that the public gets its dollar value from taxation."

A question - and - answer period followed. Mrs. Gracie Smith represented Lawrence Zollinger, candidate for auditor, who had to attend a meeting of City Council. Robert Duncan, candidate for Fourth Ward, spoke. Robert Sample, George Willshaw, candidates for Council-at-large seats, James Welch, Third Ward candidate, and Bert Dawson, candidate for treasurer, also were unable to attend because of the Council meeting.

Charles H. Bentz of Warren, executive secretary of the Trumbull County Republican Club, screened a movie, "The Velvet Curtain," concerning the apathy of voters. "The apathy of the Republican voter is appalling," he said.

"The Republican belief in individual and free enterprise could easily be buried by the opposition party's belief in a large centralized government," he commented.

Miss Gladys DeBolt, county chairwoman, and Richard G. Brian, county recorder, were guests. Mrs. Ruth Crawford, president, presided.

A rally will be held Nov. 4 at the headquarters.

Vocal selections, "Moon River" and "Come Rain," were presented by Mrs. Carol Partlow, accompanied by Miss Suzanne Culp. Board of Education members, along with three new candidates for the board, were introduced. William Ferrall, board president, spoke briefly on the renewal of the school levies and Raymond Rolley, clerk, gave a financial report.

Mrs. Martha Sommers' third grade and Mrs. Nelle Piatt's second grade tied for the attendance banner. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mina Hitt, social chairman and the sixth grade homeroom mothers. Next meeting is Nov. 4.

First Lady Sees Relics Of Ancient Mioans' Art

IRAKLION, Crete (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy saw relics of the art and culture of the ancient Minoans Tuesday, realizing what she called "the dream of my life."

The American First Lady spent hours looking at frescos of the palace of Knossos, the Iraklion museum and even walking through the labyrinth where legendary King Theseus slew the fabled Minotaur.

Mrs. Kennedy, arriving on Aristotle Onassis' yacht Christina, was excited and eager. For two hours she toured the ruins, with their marvelous frescos.

When she left by her speed boat she waved to the small crowd that gathered and applauded her. Mrs. Kennedy took with her samples of Crete's modern art.

Accompanied by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., and his wife, the First Lady went in the speed boat to a small beach nearby and swam in beautiful blue water.

A Greek bathing nearby when Mrs. Kennedy took her dip excitedly came back to shore relating that he had shaken the hand of the wife of the president of the United States.

The mayor of Iraklion gave Mrs. Kennedy several farewell gifts. They included a lyre, a musical instrument used by the people of Crete, a Minoan jug, a handwoven table cover and a piece of handwoven cloth for her to make a dress.

The island, off the western coast of Greece was the scene of numerous naval battles between the Greek tribes in the 4th century B.C.

Daryle Lamonica of the Buffalo Bills turned down a $50,000 baseball bonus in order to play football for Notre Dame.

Rotary Sees Sports Films

A short film capturing dramatic moments in sports — ranging from the Kentucky Derby to the master's golf tournament — was screened by George H. Wilson Jr. of Steubenville at the Rotary Club's noon luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Travelers Hotel.

Wilson is director of promotion and publicity of WSTV-TV, Channel 9, which broadcasts the CBS Sports Spectacular programs on Sundays.

Chris Shenkle was narrator for the CBS sports film covering baseball, thoroughbred racing, college and National Football League football, and track.

In brief remarks, Wilson discussed Channel 9's public service responsibilities. He was introduced by Ralph A. Finley, president. William P. Barker, program chairman, was unable to attend.

Finley presented a club banner to Michel Delneste, a member of the Tournai, Belgium Rotary Club. Delneste, a guest of Richard Witherow, said his club will reciprocate.

Judge Buzzard Slates Court Terms For '64

LISBON — Terms for Common Pleas Courts for 1964 were set Tuesday by Judge Raymond S. Buzard.

Terms of court will begin Jan. 6, April 6 and Sept. 8, the judge ruled.

There is no term of court during the summer, but if enough cases are pending the April Grand Jury is usually recalled by the prosecutor.

And He Thought He Was Doing A Favor

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — After paving the parking lot for a new apartment building, owner Bob Withers decided he would be doing everyone a favor if he used the excess asphalt to pave an access alley owned by the city. The volunteer project cost him $500.

City officials were unimpressed. Because Wither's paving didn't meet all specifications for city streets, the apartment owner was ordered to tear up his asphalt and restore the alley to dirt and gravel.

Firemen Again Battle Stubborn Brush Blaze

Lawrenceville firemen attempted unsuccessfully Tuesday night to quell a stubborn brush fire which continues to burn along Route 30 in the Hilltop area.

The firemen doused the blaze Monday and yesterday afternoon and last night, but the dry condition of the ground and roots enables the blaze to break out anew, firemen said. About 10 acres has been charred so far.

A fire drill was held Tuesday afternoon at the Grandview School in connection with "Fire Prevention Week," and the building was vacated in 15 seconds Fire Chief Clark Lively reported, commending the students and faculty.

White Mice Give Electrician Help

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Foreman electrician Tom Taylor had to thread a telephone line through an 80 foot pipe, 1½ inches in diameter. The pipe, with four bends and embedded in concrete was in a new 13-story building.

The usual methods of pliable wire, water and compressed air didn't work.

So Taylor went down to the local pet shop and bought Henry and Henrietta. He took Henry to one end of the pipe and tied a piece of cotton to his tail.

An assistant had Henrietta at the other end. He gave her a gentle squeeze; she squeaked; Henry moved down the pipe. Fifteen minutes later he joined Henrietta. Electricians used the cotton to pull string through, and string to pull the wire.

Henry and Henrietta? They were a pair of white mice. Henrietta later escaped from her cardboard box and was never seen again. At last report Taylor was trying to decide what to do with Henry.

Whose Birthday Was It Anyway?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The one good thing about Jeffrey Whittaker's sixth birthday was the cake.

The celebration included a trip aboard the excursion steamer Belle of Louisville, with Jeffrey taking along 12 neighborhood companions as guests.

Like any good host, he let them go aboard first while he waited with his mother, who clutched a big birthday cake.

When they stepped on the gangplank, the crew barred their way, explaining the boat was full. No amount of pleading could change things.

A group of professional actors tried to assuage the lad's disappointment by posing with him for news pictures and singing "Happy Birthday." The boat then sailed without mother and son.

More bad luck lay ahead for Jeffrey. When the papers came out the next day, the picture was there — but the editors had cropped him out of it.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Is there anything I can do when the bristles on my carpet sweeper have begun to wear short and won't pick up the dirt?

A. Try winding adhesive tape around the rollers, adhesive side down, facing the floor. This lets the brush down, and the sweeper usually works better than ever.

Q. How can I repair deeply scratched woodwork?

A. Try filling the scratches with a mixture of fine sawdust and spar varnish. After it has hardened completely, smooth down with fine sandpaper.

Q. How can I renovate leather shoes that have become hard and stiff from a soaking in the rain?

A. You can soften them by first washing in warm water, then rubbing either gycerin or castor oil thoroughly into the leather.

Q. How can I remove finger marks from my wallpaper?

A. Dampen the fingermarked area with cold water, then dust on powdered pipe clay or fuller's earth. After a few minutes, brush off with a soft brush.

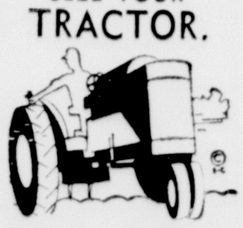

Q. What can I do when my freshly-baked cake sticks to the bottom of the pan and threatens to break to pieces as I remove it?

A. Turn the pan upside down and lay a cloth wrung out of cold water on the bottom of it. After a few minutes, the cake should come out easily without crumbling.

Deviled Steak Can Make Tasty Budget Meal

The most tempting and flavorful meats need not be the most expensive. The taste and tenderness of an inexpensive cut may be enhanced by marinating for several hours in a combination of bottled lemon juice, spices and other ingredients.

Deviled Steak is a chuck or round steak, which has been marinated for hours in bottled lemon juice, catsup, oil, Worcestershire sauce, soy sauce, rosemary, dry mustard and garlic.

The marinade gives a spicy tang to the meat, which is further enhanced if it is broiled over charcoal.

You may add a gourmet side dish by sauteeing mushrooms in butter and stirring in a little of the marinade for seasoning.

Deviled Steak

4 pounds chuck or round steak, 1 inch thick
½ cup bottled lemon juice
¼ cup catsup
¼ cup oil
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2-3 cloves garlic, minced

Place steak in single layer in shallow pan. Combine remaining ingredients; pour over steak. Marinate meat 4 hours, turning several times. Broil steak on grill over hot coals. Cook steak to doneness you like turning once. Baste with marinade during broiling. Yield: 8 servings.

Mercy Mission In Ohio

Officers, Doctors Strive To Restore Boy's Vision

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Law enforcement agencies and doctors in two cities have joined forces in a mercy mission that may restore the vision of an 18-year-old boy.

The Highway Patrol, Columbus police and physicians in Dayton and Columbus pooled their efforts Tuesday so that Preston McCrery of Miamisburg might see again.

The dramatic sequence of events unfolded while the youth waited in Grandview Hospital to have doctors perform a cornea transplant.

The Highway Patrol said an apparent mixup developed when officials at Grandview here and University Hospital in Columbus thought the other had the cornea transplant.

An emergency transfer from University to the Dayton hospital became necessary because the span of time in which the cornea can be transplanted is limited.

Columbus police picked up the cornea about 6 p.m. and rushed it to a Highway Patrol plane. The plane flew the cargo here where it was transferred to a patrol car.

The cornea, in a small glass bottle, was rushed to Grandview Hospital less than 45 minutes after the urgent call had gone out.

McCrery was taken into surgery at 8:35 p.m. and doctors worked into the early morning hours transplanting the cornea.

The youth's condition was not available.

A spokesman in Columbus said the cornea was taken at a post mortem operation from someone who had given permission to have it removed.

McCrery's mother, Mrs. Martha Harris, said her son wants more than anything else to be able to return to school.

"He was never able to finish school and that is all he talks about," she said.

The youth's eye was damaged about seven years ago when a companion threw acid into a fire while the boys were in a dump area near Franklin. The acid exploded, hitting McCrery in the face.

Two years ago, McCrery was chopping wood and in an instant the sight in his other eye was lost. "A piece of steel from the wedge he was driving into the tree hit him in the eye and blinded him," Mrs. Harris said.

Mrs. Harris has another son, Johnny Lee, 16, who lost the sight of one eye when he was 3½-years-old. He ran a pair of scissors into his eye.

Nixon Says He Hopes Rights Won't Be Issue In Campaign

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said here Tuesday night he hopes civil rights will not be an issue in the 1964 presidential campaign and promised to argue against any Republican Party move to make it one.

Introduced to a National Metal Trades Association audience of 800 as the man who "just might break that jinx" that no defeated presidential candidate came back to win, Nixon disclaimed any intention of seeking the Republican nomination again.

"I've had my chance, and it's time to give someone else a chance," he said. "My role will be to make a few speeches, write a few articles, and try to unite the warring factions after the San Francisco convention."

Nixon had no formal speech but warmly answered audience questions.

He spoken on the nuclear test ban, Cuba, the Berlin wall, surplus wheat sales to the Soviets, compulsory arbitration, the proposed tax cut, the United Nations, Viet Nam and other topics. In discussing civil rights, he showed particular concern.

If next year's presidential contest "turns out to be North against South or blacks against whites, it will be a most unfortunate thing for the nation," he declared, and "disastrous to this country abroad."

"It is important for the Republican Party particularly not to play politics with this issue," Nixon said.

Talking of the coming presidential campaign, Nixon said any one of five Republicans are potential candidates and of them Sen. Barry Goldwater "is the most likely at the present time." Govs. Rockefeller of New York, Romney of Michigan and Scranton of Pennsylvania and Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky were the others on Nixon's list. He mentioned only one possible vice presidential candidate, Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes. Rhodes, he said, isn't known too well outside Ohio, but his state fiscal program is "one of the best in the country—and that should look awfully good in 1964."

Disease Causing Boy's Death Held Not Contagious

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Leroy Dalheim, Medina County health commissioner, says the disease which caused the death of a 6-year-old Brunswick boy Sunday and set off a rush for drugs in the community is not contagious.

He gave that assurance Tuesday after Dr. Lester Adelson, deputy coroner of Cuyahoga County, reported that the boy, James Ford, was stricken with hemophilus-influenza, a powerful bacteria that damaged the boy's adrenal glands. Dr. Adelson said the disease was not the common influenza caused by a virus.

The boy's death in Cleveland's Lutheran Hospital was at first throught to have been caused by spinal meningitis, a highly contagious disease, and doctors and drug stores in Brunswick were flooded with requests for sulfa to combat any possible infection by the disease.

3-Day Affair Opens Friday

Ohio Capital To Honor Christopher Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New Orleans has its Mardi Gras, Pasadena has its Tournament of Roses and St. Paul has its Winter Festival. Now officials of the Buckeye State's capital city have that gala gleam in their eyes: a yearly extravaganza honoring another Columbus—Christopher by name.

The city kicks off the three-day affair Friday night, and officials are expressing the hope the celebration will eventually equal those other famous soirees.

Using the birthday of America's discoverer as an excuse, the city has expanded what used to be an observance long limited to the city's Italian community into a city-wide celebration featuring a parade, pageant, speeches, a host of personalities—many of whom have something to do with Columbus in one way or another—and scholarships for Christopher's birthplace.

Among those participating in the festivities will be the mayors of five cities named Columbus. They will be representing Wisconsin, Georgia, Kansas, Mississippi and, of course, Ohio.

Astronaut John Glenn Jr. of New Concord, Ohio, will receive the first Salute to Columbus award. Glenn, his wife, children and parents will be guests of honor.

The Miss Columbus of each of the five namesake cities will participate in a contest to name "Miss Columbus USA." The queen will be crowned Saturday night.

Ceremonies at City Hall will be staged Saturday morning as each Columbus mayor places a wreath at the statue of Christopher Columbus, a gift from Genoa, Italy, where the great discoverer was born.

A gift of Genoa will be unveiled at Saturday night's banquet. The gift—a plaque—will be sent to the Italian city along with the first $1,000 annual higher education scholarship for a Genovese student.

A two-hour parade Sunday evening will be climaxed by a huge fireworks display.

Telephone Program Slated By Industry Women's Club

Mrs. Fritz Dobronz, membership chairman, reminded members to invite two prospective members to this meeting. Mrs. Elliarn Stibio, hostess, will be assisted by Mrs. Clarence Wendell and Mrs. Charles Doyle.

The Executive Board will meet at 7 p. m.

The unit will sponsor a public card party and bake sale Nov. 21 at 8 p. m. in the St. Christine Church lyceum in Industry.

Bridge, pinochle, 500, bunco and rummy will be featured with prizes, refreshments and souvenirs.

Mrs. James Mullins, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Harry Craik, co-chairman, Mrs. Ed Kay, Mrs. Ray Snyder and Mrs. Roy Hohenshell.

Mrs. Jack Peck, president, Mrs. Stibio and Mrs. Charles Barrick-man attended the Beaver County Federation's workshop in Rochester Monday. Mrs. Wendell and Mrs. Peck will attend the Beaver County Mental Health Society's annual dinner Thursday in the First Presbyterian Church in Beaver Falls.

Rhodes Hits Rumors Station To Be Moved

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has scotched rumors that the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station here will be moved.

The governor said Tuesday he had not yet read the Little Hoover Commission report, dealing with the station, but he agreed with the part which said moving the station would be impractical and expensive.

Rumors had been circulating in that area that a plan to move the station was gaining headway.

Rhodes, appearing at a news conference with four cabinet members, described the station as the "most progressive research and development center in America."

Boy Certain He Won't Crawl Into Any Sewer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Stephen Auckerman, 5, was sure of one thing today. He won't go into any sewer if ever his play ball falls in again.

He did just that Tuesday, crawling through 2,000 feet of underground main after once failing in an effort to back out of the 18-inch pipe. He lost his pants enroute but finally reached a grating only 150 feet from his home. Freed from his predicament by a suburban life squad, Stevie said he didn't "want the old ball anyhow."

LISBON — The Lisbon Board of Education purchased additional industrial arts equipment for instruction of metals at a cost of $1,406.98 when it met Tuesday evening.

It also requested a new 66-passenger school bus from the state as a replacement and adopted French III and IV texts when needed.

In other business, the board discussed workmen's compensation insurance premiums, but decided it is paying the minimum and that the costs of another plan would not be profitable.

The board authorized Supt. Oliver Payne to seek another substitute bus driver as only one is available. Mrs. Helen Nisson was approved as a substitute cafeteria worker.

The proposed mental health workshop Nov. 15 was discussed and the board agreed it should be an administrative decision on who is to attend.

Dismissal Frees Man Accused Of Insulting Woman

Acting on a motion from Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today dismissed for lack of prosecution a case in which George Koloskie, 503 College St., was accused of "annoying and insulting" a woman Sept. 19 "by certain vulgar and offensive language."

The charge had been filed by Mrs. Rosalie Bishop of West End. Koloskie entered a not guilty plea Thursday and the case was continued until today.

When the case was called this morning, the complaining witness was not present. The assistant solicitor advised the court he received a telephone call a few minutes earlier from the complaining witness asserting it was "impossible" for her to appear today.

Atty. Clark recommended dismissal on the grounds the complaining witness "had plenty of notice" of the hearing time. Atty. John B. McDonald, defense counsel, opposed a continuance on the same grounds. He added the defense had summoned a witness from Warren and the man would have been required to make the trip again if the case had been continued.

Court 'Converts' Man Quickly Into Pedestrian Role

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff is no magician, but he converted a man from a defendant to a pedestrian with one quick bang of his gavel this morning.

Joseph Hute of Lisbon, arrested at 12:50 p. m. Tuesday on Market St., faced the judge on an intoxication charge. Queried about the circumstances that brought him to East Liverpool, Hute explained he walked from Lisbon to Wellsville and then continued here on foot.

Judge Chertoff imposed a fine of $10 and costs on Hute's guilty plea and then asked: "Do you think you can walk back to Lisbon if I suspend the fine?"

Hute said he was anxious to be a pedestrian instead of a prisoner. As he walked out of the court, he wished the judge "goodbye" and Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark wished him "bon voyage" and warned against any stops in taverns en route.

PUC Taking Too Much Space, Hoover Unit Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Public Utilities Commission has lived alone long enough, the businessmen studying state government say. They suggest taking in tenants and making new housekeeping arrangements.

One of the few state agencies known almost as well by its initials (PUCO) as by its full name (Public Utilities Commission of Ohio), the commission occupies a remodeled five-and-dime store in downtown Columbus.

In fact, the Little Hoover Commission—the collective nickname for the 88 business executive-volunteers brought in to look over state government—thinks it takes up too much space. It recommends microfilming records more than two years old, throwing out some others, and sub-letting space saved in the basement to other state departments.

As for housekeeping, it recommends the same thing for the PUCO and Department of Insurance: Make each a division of the State Department of Commerce, functionally responsible but not physically combined.

Ohio had a commissioner of railroads and telegraphs 96 years ago, but it wasn't until a state law became effective 50 years and 2 months ago today that the quasi-judicial body known as the PUCO came into being.

The three commissioners act on appeals when electric, natural gas, heating and water company rates can't be worked out locally and has original jurisdiction over telephone, telegraph, railroad, pipeline and motor transportation rates. It also investigates complaints.

A lot of activities that result in duplication of effort could be cut out, as well as quite a bit of paperwork, the Little Hoover Commission contends, and investigation of bus accidents should be left to the Highway Patrol.

Savings could add up to $142,000 or more, the commission says. Utility companies and common carriers are assessed to pay for PUCO operations.

Both the PUCO and the Insurance Department could work out well in the State Commerce Department, it's suggested, because both are regulatory like many other divisions of that department (banks, securities, etc.). Insurance was part of the Commerce Department until 1957.

About $45,000 and perhaps more, could be saved in the insurance operation, the commission says. Its other recommendations in this area include an administrative tightening-up and abolishing the Insurance Advisory Committee.

Probe Slated Of Cleveland Police Dept.

CLEVELAND (AP)—An investigation of the Cleveland Police Department will be made by the Cuyahoga County Sheriff's Office because the Police Department is investigating the Sheriff's Office, Sheriff James J. McGettrick reports.

The sheriff said Tuesday night police were trying to "whitewash" gambling in the city.

McGettrick's announcement of of the Police Department investigation came after police had questioned James Morris, a former sheriff's deputy, for more than four hours.

Deputy Police Inspector James Limber admitted police had questioned Morris and said they had obtained a statement from him, but refused to discuss the matter further "on orders."

Limber said Morris was being held on a charge of robbery investigation in connection with a gambling raid by sheriff's deputies last Friday.

Two Cleveland detectives said they stopped Morris while he was making an arrest because they were investigating a reported robbery in progress.

An application to have Morris released from police custody was to be heard today by Common Pleas Court Judge William J. McDermott. The former deputy was arrested Tuesday and police said he was being questioned in connection with unsolved crimes in the city.

Safety Director John N. McCormick said police were under orders not to comment on the arrest of Morris, which he said was part of a full-scale investigation into the gambling raid fiasco and the Sheriff's Offfice.

McGettrick fired Morris Monday afternoon. The sheriff said Morris falsified his job application when he was hired as a deputy by not listing a nine-year prison term he served for rape he committed while in the Army in Germany.

Morris alleges that homicide detectives interrupted his arrest attempt and stood by as he was beaten by the gamblers he was trying to take into custody.

Police Pressing 3-State Hunt For 4 Jail Escapees

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Four men escaped Butler County Jail two at a time some 24 hours apart, investigators believed today as police of three states sought trace of the quartet.

Sheriff James F. Nixon identified the four as Howard Withers, 35, of Hamilton; Dewey Alexander Jr., 23, of Franklin; George Brown 27, of Middletown, and Delmar Day Jr., 29, of nearby Trenton.

Withers was ordered committed to Lima State Hospital for observation last Thursday.

Sheriff Nixon said the escapes were detected about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday when a parole officer visited the jail to talk to one of the men. He failed to answer a summons. Check of cell quarters disclosed four men missing and bars sawed in an area leading from a shower room to an outer cell block.

A three-state alarm was broadcast immediately to police of Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

Investigation showed that Withers and Alexander made their getaway early Monday and that Brown and Day followed some 24 hours later.

The Thirty Years' War opened in Bohemia in 1618 between Catholic and Protestant armies.

Jewish Unit Eyes 120th Birthday; Koufax Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — Glad news today from B'nai B'rith, the American-born Jewish service organization, as it gets ready for its 120th birthday party:

Sandy Koufax is a member.

As you undoubtedly know, Koufax is a left-handed pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers, who humbled the New York Yankees twice in baseball's World Series.

Hence he is entitled to take his place along with such B'nai B'rith notables as Sigmund Freud, the subconscious prober; Bess Myerson, the onetime Miss America; Dr. Jonas Salk, who discovered polio vaccine, and Richard Tucker, the opera singer.

If the list seems unusually varied, well, B'nai B'rith leaders like to stress that the Jews, like every other group coming to this astonishing country, have a rich and varied history.

On Oct. 13, 1843, 12 Jewish immigrants got together in New York City, chipped in $60 for a widows' and orphans' fund, and B'nai B'rith was on its way.

Now it spends more than $15 million a year on various charities and service programs, has a large eight-story building here in Washington.

One Held In Shooting Admits He Fired Gun

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff Jack Blazer of Fairfield County says one of three men held in the shooting of a rural storekeeper has admitted he fired the gun.

Blazer said Tuesday night Robert E. Holcomb, 20, of Rt. 1, Chillicothe, told him he shot 72-year-old George Justus after the elderly man resisted a holdup attempt.

Sheriff Blazer said Holcomb and two of his companions, Fred Grenno, 24, and Robert Levan, 16, both of Circleville, were being held in the county jail for further questioning. No charges have been filed.

Justus, still in critical condition since his admission to University Hospital in Columbus, was shot in the chest by assailants who entered his store Monday night on U.S. 22 in Fairfield County.

Plentiful Foods... Your Best Buys

... this week and every week of the year!

Many of these foods are currently included in the U.S. Department of Agriculture plentiful foods bulletin.

Do you make it your policy to include a lot of the foods that are plentiful, from season to season, in your meal planning? And to freeze them in quantity for the months ahead? These are two of the easiest ways to get the best eating for your food dollar, and the best values, too . . . because when a particular food is available in abundance, the price goes down. That's why we like to let you know when certain foods are plentiful, and therefore good buys. We hope you'll take advantage of these unusually good values when you shop this weekend . . . at Golden Dawn!

Shaw's Will Hold 'Grand Opening'

Relocated in a completely new store at the corner of E. 6th and Market Sts., Shaw's Jewelry Co. will hold a "grand opening" Thursday, Friday and Saturday, it has been announced by Jack M. Shaw, owner.

New lines of merchandise have been added and new features include a gift department, offering a variety of imported items, and a bridal registration department.

THE OWNER said wedding stationery and wedding notes are also available in the new business location.

The grand opening will be observed Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be free gifts for the visiting public, Shaw said.

In the new location, Shaw's is housed in the street-level floor of a two - story building on the corner, with green ceramic on the exterior and windows facing on both streets to display merchandise. Atty. Don Smith has rented the upstairs office space.

SHAW'S jewelry store previously was located on Washington St. He purchased his former store in 1944 from Leon Rubin. In March, Shaw acquired the building formerly occupied by People's Drug Store and the building was razed to make way for the new structure.

Shaw, a resident of Youngstown, plans to move to East Liverpool. He was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh in 1928 and participated in athletics.

Mrs. Bertha Kaufman is store manager and Mrs. Shaw is in charge of the gift and china department.

Mrs. Virginia Winters, Mrs. Ruth Ritson and Mrs. Treva Goodballet are sales clerks. Mrs. Eileen Tice is in charge of the repair department, while Harvey Strotman is the watchmaker and jeweler.

Sam Hayes is the custodian.

DeGaulle Due To Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement for French President Charles de Gaulle to visit Washington next year is the only tangible result of two days of talks between Kennedy administration officials and Maurice Couve de Murville, De Gaulle's foreign minister.

Yet both sides appeared to be satisfied when the conferences ended. The emphasis was on clearing away what the State Department called "unnecessary points of misunderstanding." Couve de Murville said after his last meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk that their efforts of clarification were satisfactory.

The Frenchman met with Kennedy for 90 minutes on Monday. He had two conferences, each of about two hours, with Rusk, and another one with Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

Couve de Murville announced the De Gaulle visit after his call on the White House. He said it will take place "some time next year." Both French and American officials stressed that contrary to reports in French papers the general might come in February. No date has been mentioned as yet.

Protocol required that De Gaulle return Kennedy's 1961 Paris visit.

Authoritative sources cautioned, however, that the administration does not expect any dramatic changes from a Kennedy-De Gaulle meeting. There is no hope here that the French leader will have a change of heart and change his scheme of things which boils down to this: A France independent of everybody.

The Tenacious Pounds Case

Everybody loves to solve a mystery. Today's story is the baffling case of the tenacious pounds.

Ida Jean Kain

Since few mysteries are unraveled without reconstructing the crime, let's do some flash-backs, as in a movie thriller, and ferret out what was happening at the time you started to pile on the pounds. That's a pertinent clue.

Of course, in the movies the D.A. points his finger and shouts, "Where were you from 9 to 12 o'clock on the night of October 1?" We won't go back to the exact date, but it is imperative to connect the year the pounds first threatened with what was happening at the time.

PERHAPS THAT was the year your husband changed jobs and you moved across the country. Not knowing a soul and with nothing exciting to occupy your time, you were bored and turned to food. Studies have shown that boredom is a common cause of overeating. In a few months, without realizing it, you may have gained 18 pounds.

Or did you turn to eating out of sheer loneliness when your daughter went off to college? Often it's possible to trace a weight gain to a period of loneliness, upset, or anxiety. Food then seems to give temporary comfort and a lift to morale. Looking back, you may see that after the problem was solved, the habit of overeating carried on. But the detective work really pays off when it alerts you to the fact that now you automatically turn to eating whenever you feel at odds with yourself or something goes awry. An elevated pattern of eating can soon become fixed habit. . .then the increased daily intake of calories fixes the pounds too.

YOU MAY DECIDE there's no mystery to your excess poundage. You were a mite overweight shortly after you were married, but you felt it didn't matter since you intended to start a family anyway. But then you retained a dozen or so pounds after the baby arrived. Modern doctors now stress the advisability of getting weight down to normal before starting a family. They also restrict weight gains during pregnancy to a safe minimum—often no more than 16 pounds.

Once you see the pattern of your overeating, the mystery is solved. From then on you know how to deal with the problem. Insight is the first important step toward reducing. Decision is the second. Make up your mind to eat for normal weight and nothing can stop you. It isn't even difficult. The secret is to include liberal protein but trim off the fat. Protein at each of the three meals keeps blood sugar levels steady and fends off hunger pangs. Why not try it?

Showdown's Expected In Algeria Strife

ALGIERS (AP)— A showdown appeared building up today in Algeria's Berber revolt as President Ahmed Ben Bella cancelled a trip to the U.N. General Assembly and moved more troops toward the rebel stronghold in the Kabylie Mountains.

Apparently abandoning hope of settling the dispute by negotiation, Ben Bella ordered troop convoys into the mountains east of Algiers and told a news conference: "There will be no discussions with the criminals, no bargaining. They only understand the language of machine guns."

Ben Bella, who had been scheduled to leave today for New York, also announced that 10 persons had been killed in a clash in the coal-rich Colomb-Bechar area of the northwest Sahara which both Morocco and Algeria claim. He blamed the incident on "uncontrolled Moroccan elements"—an apparent slap at the Moroccan government—but did not say which side suffered the casualties.

There was no immediate comment from Moroccan officials.

The Algerian government's major concern was the rebellion of the Berber tribesmen, who are chafing under Ben Bella's one-man rule.

Some Homework Senseless Drudgery

Even as early as the third or fourth grade, many children must do written homework, especially in arithmetic. Rarely does the teacher figure on checking all this work for accuracy. She usually is satisfied if the child hands in the written work. She can then easily know whether the child has done the assignment. Most textbooks in arithmetic have exercises marked "for drill". It's easy for the teacher to assign such exercises. Sometimes the assignment requires half an hour of written work which won't be checked at school. Often the child merely considers it drudgery or busy work.

Dr. Garry Meyers

ALGEBRA TEXTBOOKS also contain many drill - exercises which are assigned as required busy work. If the teacher were to make it a rule to assign no more written work than she herself can check carefully, much of this senseless drudgery for children would disappear.

Many compositions written at home to be handed in at school are never examined by the teacher and some of them are dicated by a parent.

When such written assignments are required, the teacher would be wise if she sometimes required submission of them, but had the child write on the same subject at school and grade him only on that. She might, occasionally, require him to attach the composition written at school to the one he wrote at home.

A DESIRABLE TYPE of written homework in the upper grades and junior and senior high is an occasional long term assignment for which the child needs to gather information from many sources and organize it in his own way. Parents can properly help him find materials from newspapers, magazines and other sources.

The teacher's temptation is to require an excessive amount of material in this written unit. Quality and not quantity should rule in such assignments.

Most homework should not consist of writing but of reading, and some memorizing of such essential items as spelling of a short list of words, leaning basic number combinations in arithmetic and memorizing a vocabulary list.

With all such home study, parents can and should be helpful, making sure the child masters accurately the few items he should learn by heart and reads carefully for meaning from textbook assignments, as in history, geography and science.

WONDERFUL WHEN a parent reads such assignments with the child, helping him turn each paragraphy into a sentence or two of his own.

The teacher can't be with the child or youth when he is studying his assignments at home. Even if parents are not able to help him, they can and should see to it, as soon as homework assignments begin, that the child goes at them properly at a regular time and place and sticks to them diligently.

8 Jailed In Bombings

MONTREAL (AP)—Eight young men have been sentenced to prison for the rash of antigovernment bombings in the Montreal area last spring. All pleaded guilty.

Victims Of Incurable Disease

2 Children, Boy 9, Girl 6, Live On Borrowed Time

STERLING, N.D. (AP)—"You know they're going to go, but still it hits you hard when they do."

Mrs. William Patterson was talking about two of her children —Richard, 9, and Betty Ann, 6.

They are bright, handsome youngsters. But the chances are they will not live much longer.

Richard and Betty Ann are victims of muco visicidosis, sometimes called cystic fibrosis. It's incurable despite all the efforts of medical science.

The Pattersons, who live on a farm eight miles northeast of this little town in southern North Dakota, know quite a lot about muco viscidosis.

The same disease already has taken the lives of three Patterson children. Virginia died a year ago at the age of 7, Judy died eight years ago when she was nearly 4 and Donna Mae died 17 years ago at only 2 months.

Two others in the family — Le Roy, 12, and William Jr., 15, have slight touches of the dread sickness but evidently are not seriously afflicted.

There has been no sign of it in the other three Patterson children—twins Donald and David, 19, and Janice, 16.

Doctors say muco viscidosis is congenital and is passed on by parents. Glands of the lungs and pancreas produce abnormal amounts of thick mucus, clogging the vital organs and leading to infection.

Both Richard and Betty Ann are familiar figures at St. Alexius Hospital in nearby Bismarck, where they take oxygen twice a week and are confined for frequent bouts of pneumonia.

Cold weather is dangerous for the youngsters, so they take their school lessons at home and stay in the house most of the winter.

The family is not well off, and the state welfare department has helped them with expenses.

But the Pattersons are not ones for complaining.

"We're so thankful that the disease does not affect the children's minds and that our other children have been very healthy," said Mrs. Patterson.

And Richard, at least, knows what is coming.

"Yup," he chirped, "I'm living on borrowed time."

Large Well Due For 'Dry Dora'

DORA, N.M. (AP) — The water supply for Dora's 150 residents has consisted of 23 individual wells which pumped from one pint to one gallon a minute. The schools have depended on 15,000 gallons of water hauled from nearby Lubbock, Tex., once a month by a milk hauler who filled up the empty milk cans with water.

But now, with a $83,000 loan from the Farmer's Home Administration, Dora will have a large well three miles from town, transmission pipes to an 80-foot storage tank and connections to the meters of 48 prospective users.

Allen Chapman, president of the new Dora Water Cooperative Assn., said "There are no lawns, flowers, shrubs or gardens in Dora. We didn't have any water so we have done without it."

He added that when water first gushes from faucets, there will be a celebration.

"We'll drink toasts to each other," he said, "with water, of course."

Before Picking '64 Candidates

Ike Urges GOP To Stage Wide-Open Policy Debate

How does former President Dwight D. Eisenhower size up various facets of the political picture with an election year in the offing? Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer, and Marvin L. Arrowsmith, who covered the White House for the AP during the eight years Eisenhower was president, interviewed him and here is the story.

By JACK BELL
and
MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower wants Republicans to battle out policy differences publicly at the 1964 convention—and then pick a presidential candidate best representing majority views proclaimed in a terse party platform.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Eisenhower said he would "like to see a good lively fight" among delegates on the GOP's course. In this way "you could have the feeling of consensus of Republican thought" in the choice of presidential and vice presidential nominees.

Eisenhower, who wants this sort of wide-open policy debate on the convention floor, met with AP reporters in his office on the Gettysburg College campus. Here are other points he made in a far-ranging discussion of political matters:

—He believes he may have been mistaken in interpretation of some of the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater, particularly on repeal of the graduated income tax. But Eisenhower also still believes that before the Arizona senator "can be considered a truly serious candidate, he has to do his best to make his views clear"—in presidential primaries and otherwise—on such matters as foreign policy, medical care for the aged, fiscal responsibility, the farm problem and civil rights.

—He has "kept very still in expressing a personal preference" for the presidential nomination because "I have no intention of trying to be a kingmaker." But he thinks three or four men he declined to name are more highly qualified than others to be president.

—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has told him he was removing himself absolutely from the 1964 presidential nomination contest. "But," says Eisenhower, "I suppose that if suddenly there was a wave of support that threw him again into the race, there would be no question about his capacity to perform the job."

Question: Mr. President, you had quite a bit of experience in the field. What kind of a president do you think Kennedy is making?

Gen. Eisenhower: One thing I have always avoided is dealing in personalities. But I will say that in almost every domestic program I see what I consider is a degree of, if not recklessness, at least of carelessness in our budgetary affairs, so that there are few domestic programs, that he has advanced, that I could agree with wholly.

Q. The other day you wrote that you are unclear on precisely what are Sen. Goldwater's present views. You called on him and other Republican presidential possibilities to state their views clearly. On what particular issues are you unclear about Goldwater? Do they include, for example, civil rights?

A. I don't know exactly what he has said about civil rights, but I think he has probably taken a moderate course. I believe he must believe, like all of us, in progress in this field. As a matter of fact, I believe in just as fast progress as we can make, but it must not be so impulsive as to be destructive.

Q. Sen. Goldwater professed himself to be mystified, saying he thought he had made his views on the issues very clear.

A. I may have been mistaken, but I thought at one time he had argued for complete repeal of the graduated income tax. In this I have been told that I was mistaken. But a couple of weeks ago, in an interview, he said he was against it in principle. He thought the only practical thing to do was to keep the graduated tax in proper bounds, useful bounds, that would do the least damage to incentives and our capabilities of accumulating reinvestment capital while we were getting the necessary revenues to run the country.

I accept this attitude, except that I believe the graduated income tax is, within reason, correct in principle, too. I think unquestionably his view now is one that would be close to mine. But there have been a number of his views in the past that my friends and I, in our talks, have just not known in detail.

I assume that if he comes into a position of candidacy, that he will try to take each of these things—the farm problem, sound fiscal proposals, foreign affairs and whatever—that he will define his approach in terms that a man can say, "I can take this," or, "I would object to this."

Q. Specifically, on civil rights Goldwater has said he is opposed to what is called the public accommodations proposal. I wonder what your view on that particular proposal is?

A. Personally, I would think if we are going to get into this thing as a matter of law, and if you could get it passed, we should base our effort on the 14th and 15th Amendments (to the Constitution).

If I had to vote on this thing on the theory that the interstate commerce clause (of the Constitution) would give you the necessary authority to establish such a law, and enact it and enforce it, I would be very doubtful. I can't believe the framers of our Constitution would try to take the interstate commerce clause and make it apply to a little filling station or a hamburger place, so as to regulate who could come in there and who couldn't.

I would hope that here we would have an awful lot of moral suasion—as much as law—because I can see many ways that you probably could settle this thing.

Q. An incumbent president usually is supposed to have the odds on his side. What makes you think that a Republican can beat Kennedy next year? I assume you think that.

A. Yes, I do. I think, of course, you have to have the right combination. You have to clearly establish a clean-cut program of action. This you do in your platform. Then you have to have a candidate who can appeal to the people in the mass with the logic of his position, pointing up where he can do things better than his predecessor, and one who enjoys the respect of the United States.

And along with that, he should have a very fine vice presidential nominee who would do the same things.

I have kept very still in expressing a personal preference in this field. I want to see every possible candidate putting his personal program or personal platform before the public. Then let it be debated.

Hancock Dog Pound Houses Poultry Of Children's Home

Chickens and dogs might not be the best companions, but in this case its necessity and not choice that make for such strange bedfellows.

Such a situation exists at the Hancock County Dog Pound in Pughtown, where a section has been converted into a chicken coop.

And apparently the yapping of the hounds mixing with the cluck-cluck of the hens isn't diverting the course of Mother Nature for the poultry.

Rows of white pullets in wire cages are being raised in part of the dog pound for lack of better facilities on the Children's Home farm nearby.

William C. Graham, president of County Court which supervises both facilities, said the hens quit laying last year when the winter weather caused the water to freeze at the farm chicken coop.

The pound is equipped with gas heat and hot water, and providing better conditions for the pullets to lay fresh eggs for the dinner tables of the Children's Home, he said.

The hens that don't lay eggs regularly become poultry for the Children's Home's menus, he added.

Graham explained that County Court was planning a new chicken coop for the Children's Home farm but is presently considering construction of a new dormitory addition.

Automatic lighting is installed at the dog pound to awaken the chickens early.

Graham said the farm owned 184 chickens last year but had to purchase eggs when the hens quit laying due to the chilly weather in the barn.

Pennsy Hearing Set On Irondale Station

IRONDALE — The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has made application to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission to change the status of its station here.

The company plans to change it from an agency freight station to that of an agency carload-only freight station.

A public hearing on the request is slated Nov. 19 at 10 a. m. in the commission offices in Columbus.

Doggone Difficult

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It was a doggone exasperating case, you'd have to admit. Policeman C. A. Russell agreed to help the lady find her dog, which was lost on the beach. Sure enough, he did find it. Only he couldn't find the lady when he brought the pooch back in his car. Then he had to leave to check another case and when he got back to the car the dog was gone again. He couldn't find it again but finally found the owner and turned the case over to her.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from "Gypsy," the middle-aged, rich widow who was willing to buy herself a husband, started me thinking.

I know you don't believe in Lonely Hearts Clubs and neither do I. But since you hear from so many fine people who yearn desperately for companionship you could perform a marvelous service by helping these lonely people find one another.

Of course you would have to screen the applicants carefully. They would be required to furnish you with character references written by a clergyman, a neighbor and an employer.

You might even set up an interviewing bureau in your home so you could personally meet these people in a noncommercial setting and then decide which individuals should be brought together.

You could match people according to religion, educational background, interests and so on. Think of the lives you could change.—HLP.

Dear JLP: It sure could change lives all right—including mine. All I need is a lonely hearts operation in my own home.

Playing cupid for strangers can be a dangerous, vicious business, and I don't care what high-sounding, respectable name you give it. Obviously there are many decent people who are lonely but I would not risk subjecting them to the opportunistic, unscrupulous characters whose lives are so messed up they must seek friendships with strangers.

This "getting people together" through the column pitch is made dozens of times every week and it will continue to get the same answer—NO!

Disowned Children

Dear Ann: Do you think parents should disown their children?

Both my son and daughter have made unfortunate marriages. My husband says so far as he is concerned they are dead.

I'm not apologizing for my children, Ann. They were of legal age when they botched up their lives but that is their business and they are paying for their mistakes.

My husband will not permit our children to come to our home and he says I'm being disloyal to him when I visit them in their homes. He becomes furious when he hears me talking to one of them on the phone.

I love my children, in spite of the failures, and my grandchildren are a source of continuing pleasure. I couldn't bear to put them out of my life.

This problem has caused considerable friction between my husband and me. Please express your views.—OHIO MOTHER.

Dear Mother: If your husband doesn't wish to see his children, that's his business. But he has no right to demand that you stay away from them.

Don't invite the children to your home when your husband is present but go to their homes when you wish and above all, don't allow this tyrant to impose his will on you.

Jinx Corner

Dear Ann: Do you believe in a jinx? A certain corner in our town seems to have a curse on it. There have been more accidents at that one place than anywhere else in the city.

I've had two minor accidents at this corner and both have me baffled. The corner is well lit and there are stop signs on both sides. Once I ran the stop sign although I've known for years that there is a sign there. Another time I was day dreaming and bumped into the car ahead.

I don't believe in jinxes, yet how do you explain this?—KOOKY KATE.

Dear Kook: Avoid that corner. Not because it is jinxed—I don't believe in jinxes—but because you have a fix on it and you always will have.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Policy Explained In Tax Charges Taken Into Court

The policy followed by the city income tax office in haling persons into Municipal Court for alleged violations of the city income tax law was explained today by D. G. Wilkinson, tax commissioner.

Wilkinson said he issued the explanation because of complaints that most persons taken into court already have paid the tax. He said the office never files charges against persons who have complied with the law. But a large percentage pays the tax in the interval between service of the summons and the court appearance, he said.

His statement said:

"This office wishes to clarify what apparently is a misunderstanding on the part of at least a part of the public regarding the names and addresses of those persons who have been summoned into court as a result of an affidavit filed for non-payment of the income tax.

"Tax records of every individual whose name has appeared in print were checked, double checked and triple checked as to accuracy before they were issued a summons to appear in court and in no case has a summons been issued where the individual has paid the tax. However, the majority of the delinquents have made payment in full between the date of the summons and the trial date set by the court."

Orange Is Preferred, And That's True Yolk

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Does the color of the yolk make any difference to egg buyers?

Dr. Quentin Banks, Kansas State University marketing economist, reports that a sample survey in St. Louis, Mo., showed 45 per cent of the customers preferred eggs with orange yolks over those that are lemon color. The remaining 55 per cent were evenly divided between dark and light-color yolks.

Banks said the study suggested egg sales could be boosted if cartons were labeled to show what color yolks the eggs had.

Despite Man-Made Systems

Weather Can Set Price Of Food, Clothing, Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Weather still can affect the course of business and public and individual fortunes despite all the man-made economic and political systems.

It can set the price of many things from food to clothing to shelter—even the price of gold.

Weather can weaken governments or parties along with specific corporations or enterprises. It can change long-held government policies, although its effects may show up more quickly on commodity markets and sometimes stock exchanges.

Any merchant can tell you how fair days or foul can affect his sales on any one day—or how temperature and precipitation variations can make or break any one season for him.

The Communist nations have been taking their licks from the weather to the accompaniment of dramatic headlines—wheat shortages in Russia, hurricane damage in Cuba. But weather also has been setting economic courses in non-Communist countries. Many of the patterns are pleasant this year. Some are not.

Coffee merchants are saying prices may rise this winter. The reason: Brazil's crop has been badly hit by drought and frost, and also by forest fires blamed on the drought.

The price of sugar may be tied to the skirts of Hurricane Flora, even if the United States no longer gets any of its sugar from Cuba. The reason: Russia has been either consuming or acting as middleman for Cuba's sugar crop. Flora is reported to have damaged it heavily, adding to the already admitted damage caused by the shortcomings of the Communist regime there.

The world sugar market will be affected by the loss of the Cuban crop, and with world sugar prices already high, and fluctuating, the price in the United States may be affected.

Weather, however, has been kind to the U.S. sugar beet industry. A bumper crop here will temper the effects of Flora's rampage.

The failure of the Russian wheat crop is chalked up to bad weather, with an assist from Communist collective inefficiencies. Russia's shortage has had widespread reactions.

Canada has sold Russia 239 million bushels and Australia has sold 58.5 million bushels. The sale particularly helps Canada just now because perfect weather has given Saskatchewan a near record wheat crop this year to overflow the storage facilities.

Russia's wheat dearth expanded further into international finances. To pay for its grain purchases Russia has been selling gold on the free market in Europe, an estimated 300 tons, of $280 million worth in September alone. This is more than its average annual sales volume.

The offering has forced the price on the London market below $35.07 an ounce. The official U.S. Treasury price, plus handling charges, is $35.08.

All this takes pressure off the U.S. gold reserves—thanks to the bad wheat weather in Russia.

It also may be giving Russia still another headache. Gold producers estimate that Soviet mining is relatively expensive, that it actually costs Russia $70 an ounce to produce the metal it's selling. That spell of bad weather may be crippling the Communist economy in more ways than one.

Family Starts Cruise But Sails Nowhere

ALMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A family started a vacation cruise to Hawaii—and sailed to nowhere.

Hank Simonsen, a Walnut Creek businessman, piloted his 55 foot vessel out the Golden Gate with his wife and their children.

A huge swell loosened four 50-gallon gasoline drums, and one rolled overboard.

After the deck damage was repaired, there were troubles with the electrical logging instruments and the binnacle.

With vacation time gone, the family returned home.

Bishop Finds Pope John Spirit Continues In Paul

This is another in a series of special articles Bishop John King Mussio of the Steubenville Diocese is writing for The Review while he attends the Vatican Council in Rome.

By BISHOP MUSSIO
(Special To The Review)

ROME — On the morning of the solemn opening of the second session of the Council, I was fortunate to have Fr. Bocella guide me to the assembly place for all the bishops prior to the procession into St. Peter's Basilica.

He directed the auto driver to take us to the Belvedere Court inside Vatican City. There we entered an elevator usually reserved for the Cardinals and were soon in the room where the procession was to begin.

SINCE THAT first solemn procession of a year ago that opened the Council a pope has died and about 68 bishops. Yet the Church moves on, a second session is convened with a new pope, and new bishops succeeding those who have gone into eternity.

It is a humbling thought—none of us is indispensable, only our office. That office is revivified again and again with the new coming to take the place of those now past. Truth moves on undefiled, unchanged. That is the role of the bishop and he does well when his heart and mind are ready instruments of the Holy Spirit.

At the solemn opening of the second session, Pope Paul descended from the portable throne as the procession entered the great doors of St. Peter's Basilica. He then walked slowly up the main aisle, acknowledging the greetings of the assembled bishops by a friendly nod, raising his hands in warm welcome. This break with an old tradition set well with those who appreciate a sense of closeness.

AS THE Pope walked up the aisle, I had a very clear and close view of him. He is a man of a thin, aesthetic face, walking with quiet dignity, eyes cast down, hands folded in prayer. Now and then he lifts his eyes to pierce the souls of those about with a kindliness and warm humanness that belies the serious bearing of his countenance.

He is every inch a Pope; he has the stateliness and orderly dignity, a certain note of withdrawal which at no time detracts from the sense you have that Pope Paul is a true shepherd, knowing you with all the warmth and understanding that you have for those you love. It is rather strange that this man, thin, serious of face, erect and agile gives you the same feeling of being a champion of all that is good in our modern world as did Pope John.

LIKE POPE JOHN, the present Holy Father thinks with the mind of a man of today; like John, Paul is resolved that modern man see the good that is in our day and to make that good the solemn objective of true progress. Although the two Popes do not look alike, you soon realize they are one in the common determination to bring the truths of Christ to the people of this day in a form and expression of words understood by all.

Already we have good omens of the direction of this Council. Even before his election Pope Paul pledged himself to follow the direction set by Pope John. In his talks after his election as Pope he repeated his determination to work hard for the realization of the spirit manifested by the Consiliar Fathers in the first session. Very recently he kindly and with understanding spoke to the Curia.

HE ACKNOWLEDGED their necessary place in the working of the Church, he praised their sense of dedication, he deplored much of the misrepresentation as to the nature and work of the Curia. But he also reminded the Curia that with the years there is much that has become antiquated, encrusted on the machinery of Curial service; procedures that are outmoded, customs that have no relation to service, policies that sometimes do not come from the Holy Father but found birth somewhere along the lines of authoritative descent.

The Holy Father graciously reminded the fathers of the Curia that in this day of new nations and ever changing conditions, it is impossible for one who knows life only in one center to fully appreciate the problems of those on the other side of the globe.

HE EXPRESSED his intention to internationalize the Curia, to bring in bishops from these far scattered parts of the world, to train everyone in the Curia with an international viewpoint, to move things along with the efficiency that serves the good and the need of souls and to let nothing interfere with the prime purpose in every action of the Church.

NEXT: The bishops begin work at Council sessions.)

Hey There, Anyone For Fried Marbles?

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Lloyd Cafferty, operator of the Ames Nursery has fried marbles for sale.

Cafferty says he puts clear glass marbles of various colors and sizes into a dry cast iron skillet and "fries" them for 15 minutes, then dumps them in ice water.

The temperature change "crackles" the inside of the marbles without changing their shape. Cafferty says they can be used for costume jewelry, flower arrangements or aquarium decorations.

If small amounts of food are deep - fat fried at a time, the temperature of the fat won't be lowered unduly as the food is added.

Own Conflicts, Cold War Changes

Asia's Severely Shaken

EDITORS NOTE—Reporter William L. Ryan has covered news all over the world, from Moscow to Chile to Singapore. He is a specialist in Communist affairs and the way nations react to the Communist effort to gain converts. Now he is back in Asia, talking to people across the political spectrum from extreme right to extreme left, and from the top to the bottom of the ladder.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Asia is severely shaken today by its own conflicts and by radical changes in the cold war picture. These changes are a potent yeast in the ferment which is engulfing the whole vast, over-peopled, and impatient continent.

"This is a most critical moment for Asia," said one highly placed informant. "You might say this whole area now is up for grabs."

It seems probable that a long hard struggle is ahead to prevent the whole continent from falling one day under Communist domination.

The most significant development for Asia in the past decade has been the violent quarrel between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and Red China.

Yet there are also clear indications that the Chinese-Soviet split is being overstressed to an extent that can lead to dangerous consequences.

To Indians, the split seems to have become a question as simple as black and white: The Chinese have become all bad—therefore those who seem to oppose the Red Chinese must be the reverse. This includes the Soviet party and its followers.

Even in Southeast Asia circles closely connected with the United States and the West one can detect a superabundance of optimism. This seems based on the notion that the Red Chinese have lost the implicit support of the Russians, should Peking think in terms of embarking on reckless adventures. But Peking always has had the long view of domination in Asia by slow stages, despite its defiance of nuclear "paper tigers."

The more cautious element in Southeast Asia makes allowance for the possibility of events—a showdown crisis in which Moscow may have to stand up and be counted, or a change of leadership either in Peking or Moscow—which could cause the Russians and Chinese to close ranks.

Although the world's attention was diverted by the Cuban missile crisis last October, Red China' attack at that time on India's frontiers was an event of enormous cold war significance.

India turned in virtual panic to the United States for military help. It got aid, under the U.S.-British Nassau agreement, but this tended to damage Nehru's standing as the Asian leader of nonalignment.

The Indians are getting arms, ammunition and technical assistance for their armed forces. They wanted a bit more. The Indians hinted broadly that they wanted Nike-Zeus ground-to-air missiles for defensive purposes around the big Indian cities.

The United States did not take the hint. Possibly the reaction in Pakistan, which constantly expresses fear of the Indians, played a part.

70-Lb. Blocks Of Ice Used To Install Safe

TOOWOOMBA, Australia (AP) — They were trying to install a 3,000 pound safe in a bank in this Southern Queensland city.

The aperture was ready, but part was below floor level, and so situated that no normal lowering technique would serve.

Then engineer Russ Webb called for six 70 pound blocks of ice to bring the level up to floor, slid the safe on the ice, then waited and mopped.

It took a week for the ice to melt enabling the safe to fit snugly into position.

Turning Point In Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever afterward the girl would remember this moment as the turning point in her life.

She was tall and slender and 17 years old. She had green-blue eyes and reddish gold hair, and the freckles on her fair skin shone like tiny doubloons scattered by wastrel elves.

She walked hesitantly into the room where a number of men were drinking cocktails and smoking.

"Say the Lord's Prayer," brusquely commanded producer Gabriel Pascal.

"Our Father, who art in heaven," began the girl. For a moment, freightened, she paused, then went on. 'Hallowed be thy name. "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done. . ."

The room became silent except for her voice. When she had finished, the men exchanged glances.

Then Pascal signed the girl, who had been living on $10 a week in a London YWCA, to her first movie role—as the Salvation Army lass in Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara."

Deborah Kerr, now an international film star who has six times been nominated for academy awards, recalled the incident during a stopover on her way to Mexico to make her 28th picture, "Night of the Iguana," in which she will co-star with Richard Burton and Ava Gardner.

"I was so unnerved that I was afraid I'd forget the words of the prayer," she said.

Miss Kerr carries herself with an air of aristocratic grace and elegance that is rescued from aloofness by an easy warmth and those down-to-earth freckles, which she doesn't mind at all.

"If you have freckles, you might as well relax and enjoy them," she remarked. "There's nothing you can do about them."

The major tensions that afflict many actresses seem to have passed Deborah by.

"But my biggest fault probably is fretting over trifles," she said.

"I'm terribly indecisive — perhaps because I was born in September under the Zodiac sign of Libra."

Miss Kerr has wide-ranging interests—painting, the piano, poetry, and studying cook books. Her favorite food is "spaghetti with anything," and her greatest unachieved ambition is "to be able to cook marvelously."

Deborah is somewhat apologetic over being so distressingly normal.

"I have a happy life," she said. "Perhaps I should be a bit more of a kook, but I'm afraid I'm too old to start."

She said that her philosophy stems from her aunt, who on giving birth to a child at the age of 48 and being asked what it was like, replied, "Never make heavy weather of anything, dear."

"Now doesn't that sound terribly British and nautical?" asked Deborah, smiling. "But it's a good phrase to live by."

The state treasurer received $1,440.45 for the state's 45 per cent of patrol fines.

Burrs Stopped Bike

PRATT, Kan. (AP) — A cross-country cyclist ran into a prickly situation in Kansas. Phil Lord, making a bicycle trip from Rochester, N. Y., to Santa Monica, Calif., spent several hours in this southwest Kansas town because sandburrs caused two flat tires on his bicycle.

Former City Man Assists In School Bus Safety Plan

Working on a program of school bus safety that is to be adopted on a statewide basis later, a former East Liverpool man has completed pilot training of the project at Eastwood School District near Bowling Green.

James A. Provost, who was graduated from ELHS in 1942, was hired in February by Ohio State University, which is developing the program in co-operation with the State Department of Education.

Provost's first job was to compile a training manual and program. The second phase, completed at Eastwood, was holding pilot sessions in both city and county levels.

Bringing the course to the Eastwood School District represented his first application of the experiment to a county system, and 13 bus drivers participated in a week - long program of three-hour classes.

The course consisted of three hours of pre - driving training, nine hours of instruction in driving procedures and three hours of testing.

Many state school districts have established some sort of education program for school bus drivers, but Provost believes that standardization of such programs on a state-wide basis must be considered for the future. Provost will now evaluate the pilot program and revise his manual.

He is a son of Louis Provost, formerly of East Liverpool and the late Mrs. Provost and was graduated in 1949 from Bowling Green State University. He was school principal and transportation supervisor of Eastwood until last spring.

Man, 30, Pulled Uninjured From Sewer Cave-In

HUNTINGTON (AP) — A Huntington man was pulled uninjured Tuesday from the bottom of a 14-foot hole where he had been trapped for nearly two hours by a cave-in.

Huntington firemen lifted Frank Simpkins, 30, from a crumbling sewer excavation with a rope.

Dirt had poured in on the worker from the side of the hole, covering his legs to six inches above the knees.

"I know I was lucky," Simpkins said later.

Simpkins said he first tried to dig himself out with his hands, the cave-in having buried his shovel.

He said he could move only from the waist up and that his legs and feet were getting cold.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Some Newsmen Get To Go Straight

At least one sign of maturity can be spotted in the new TV season. NBC's Chet Huntley-Dave Brinkley and CBS' Walter Cronkite no longer are required to deliver the commercial "lead-ins" with the news.

Hal Humphrey

This saves the already commercially inundated TV fans from the incongruity of listening to these news correspondents deliver a casualty report from South Viet Nam followed by "and-now-a-word-from-Spiffy-cigarettes."

-:-

THE SIGNIFICANCE of this breakthrough may be lost on many viewers of TV, but to the Messrs. Huntley, Brinkley and Cronkite it is sweet victory resulting from long and arduous battle.

Rumor has it that Chet and Dave went to their NBC boss, Vice President William McAndrew, before starting their new nightly half-hour news program and flatly refused to continue tainting the news with personal commercial lead-ins.

Because Chet and Dave currently are in a neck-and-neck rating race with Cronkite and are the stars of NBC's news department, the network evidently was readier to risk the displeasure of advertisers than that of Chet and Dave.

THE OFFICIAL POLICY line as now expressed by NBC's McAndrew is that such a variety of products was involved in sponsorship of the new half hour, it became too unwieldy for Chet and Dave to handle the lead-ins to commercials.

At CBS, news president Richard Salant is not so equivocal as his NBC counterpart. He states, it was simply a matter of his wanting a policy of no lead-ins for the Cronkite program and that he obtained permission from his management to put it into effect.

Even so, Chet and Dave come off cleaner than Cronkite. A Huntley-Brinkley title card is put on the TV screen before each commercial on their program, but Cronkite still is compelled to use the teaser technique (" . . . that story in a moment").

AS MENTIONED earlier here, all of this may strike most TV viewers as much ado about hardly anything. Actually, however, it bears as much significance for the public as for the newscaster.

In the 12 months since President Kennedy's Cuban blockade, much has been said about our government's "managing of the news" and the fear of what such practice could do to our free press.

Consider also, then, the news management which might result from sponsors with too much proprietary influence over a newscaster on whose program they place commercials.

IT IS LIKELY, for example, that Chet Huntley will report on the latest American Medical Association statistics on cigarettes and lung cancer just before saying, "And now a word from spiffy cigarettes"?

The networks (and local stations) found to their sorrow that knuckling under to sponsors' wishes on entertainment shows was not the smartest thing they ever did. Witness the rash of quiz shows and violent Westerns which resulted in congressional investigations.

Keeping newscasters away from commercial lead-ins separates the news from the advertising and thus relieves the networks of the temptation to kow-tow to "good business' expediency.

ALSO IT GIVES the newsman a dignity he deserves if he cares a hoot about his job or has any respect for the news. News is not something to be huckstered like soap or cars, nor is it something to be given a "show business" presentation.

At NBC, they are looking with jaundiced eye at the "managing editor" desk and "news room" set in which CBS' Cronkite is operating.

The American Federation of TV-Radio Artists already has informed CBS that these other newsmen should be paid actors' scale for their appearance, because they are made to use makeup.

At ABC, where the profit sheet isn't as healthy, the newsmen still are doing the commercial lead-ins.

You are safe in using pastry made with two cups of flour for an 8-inch double - crust pie. There will be some pastry scraps left-over but these can always be used for turnovers or a few tarts.

Observance Begins

Area Drive Seeks More Jobs For Handicapped

National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week is being observed in East Liverpool, Wellsville and the surrounding areas by the Ohio State Employment Service office.

Proclamations were issued by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Mayor William Daugherty of Wellsville calling attention to residents of the importance of the observance.

They proclaimed that an opportunity to work is a rightful heritage of all persons and that there is extensive proof that handicapped persons are meritorious employes when placed in suitable jobs.

They urged residents to co-operate in the observance of the week and in planning activities for the coming year which will further improve employment opportunities for the handicapped and thereby strengthen the economic growth of both communities.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the local employment office, said 500 letters have been mailed to business places and manufacturers in East Liverpool and Wellsville urging them to employ the handicapped.

In the letter, he points out the results of a survey made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that on many jobs the handicapped are more efficient and are injured less.

There are 60 hadicapped applicants currently listed on the files, Dinsmore said. He lists the background of five in the letter.

Dinsmore urged the use of the Employment Service office in filling job openings.

Dinsmore said the Sea Scouts have distributed 72 window cards to business places in town.

Aiding the handicapped in locating employment is a continuous effort, but this week is used to call attention to the need, Dinsmore said. The office always assists the handicapped where it can, he commented.

Ex-Prober Of Crime Says Valachi Truthful

CLEVELAND (AP) — A retired New York crime investigator says underworld informer Joseph Valachi must live, even behind bars, or nobody ever again will inform on the Mafia.

Former Asst. Chief Inspector Raymond B. Martin said in a television appearance Tuesday that he believes Valachi is telling the truth in his appearances before a Senate Crime Investigating Committee. The underworld is said to have posted a $100,000 reward for the murder of Valachi.

Ohio Group 27th In U.S. To Pass PTA Policies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc., has become the 27th state group to pass national PTA policies.

Four more states must adopt the policies, dealing mostly with the federal government, before they become active.

One suggests that the U. S. Office of Education become autonomous, governed by a federal board of education. Others specify how federal funds should be meted out and controlled, maintaining a maximum of local control.

The Ohio Congress is expected to adopt a resolution at this convention against obscenity. Such adoption could lead to a study of the influence on children of alleged obscenity through newsstands, the mails, television and movies.

Keynote speaker Galen Saylor, chairman for the exceptional child of the National Congress of PTA called on the delegates to "draw themselves upward to even higher levels of morality in personal and public strength."

Mrs. William Shapiro of Toledo was elected president of the Ohio Congress.

Lima Man, 21, Held In Fatal Shooting

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Police held Walter Cole, 21, of Lima in the fatal shooting Tuesday night of another Lima man. He was not charged immediately.

Police said witnesses told them Cole argued with the victim, Wallace Clayborn, 36, of a Lima street, then shot him in the neck. Clayborn died a few hours later.

The victim's wife, Wilma Mae, was beaten over the head during the argument but police said they do not know by whom. She was hospitalized with serious head wounds.

GASOLINE ALLEY

OFF THE RECORD

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent that annoying "scum" from forming on the surface of leftover paint?

A. Press a circle of waxed paper, a little larger than the diameter of the paint container, gently down on the surface of the paint, squeezing out all air pockets, and with the edges of the paper sticking to the sides of the container. Replace the lid tightly, and when needed again, it will be necessary only to stir your paint well.

Q. How can I clean hard-finish furniture upholstery?

A. After a thorough vacuuming and brushing, mix up pure castile soapsuds in lukewarm water and scrub the upholstery with a brush. Take one workable area at a time, and remove the suds with a rough cloth dipped in clear water to which a little powdered alum has been added.

Q. Do you advocate the use of cleaning fluid for white felt hats?

A. Not too much, since this could turn the hats yellow in time. Instead, mix equal parts of cornmeal, salt, and flour, and rub this into the felt. Let stay overnight, then brush out thoroughly. Or, make a paste of plaster of paris and benzine, rub over the hat, and let dry before brushing off.

Q. How can I brighten up dull-looking pewter?

A. Drop a small lump of potash into a quart of water, and soak the pewter in this for at least 24 hours. Then take it out and rub all over with a cork dipped in olive oil or mineral oil, following this up with a brisk dry-chamois rubbing.

Q. Is there an easy way to add luster to linoleum without actually waxing it?

A. One good way to do this is to add a little sour milk to the rinse water when you wash the floor.

Q. How can I clean teacups, discolored either by tea or coffee?

A. By wetting with vinegar, then dipping a damp cloth into salt, and rubbing these stains away.

Junior Editors Quiz on SPONGES

QUESTION: What is a sponge? Why are there so many off the west coast of Florida?

ANSWER: What we think of as a sponge is really the soft skeletons of many sponge animals which have lived together as a group — the animals themselves having been entirely removed.

The single sponge animal is a very simple little creature, (1). It is shaped like a tube and has a number of small openings (black arrows) through which the sea water comes. Lining the tube are tiny hairs which keep the water moving by waving, and back of them are cells which can digest minute animals and plants brought in by the water, which is then passed out through the opening in the top. Sometimes these sponge animals grow alone, but often the first animal will develop others which attach themselves together and form rounded and sometimes cup-like shapes. The sponges are soft because the skeleton or tube of each animal is made of a special substance called spongin.

Sponge grow in many tropical or warm seas. But they round out in the best shapes where there are few ocean currents to disturb them. These conditions are found on Florida's west coast. The Greek fishermen either hook them up with long poles, or send down divers.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look in an atlas to find where the location of Tarpon Springs, which is the center of sponge fishing. Notice the enclosed shape of the Gulf of Mexico, where the sponges grow well because there are few currents.
